Gov. Rolph Delivers Message To Legislature Tonight

CRAIG GIVEN HIGH OFFICE IN ASSEMBLY

Orange County Assemblyman Slated for Chairman of Attaches Body

PUT MESSAGE ON AIR

Sen. Sharkey Will Be Governor's Spokesman in Upper House, Predicted

BULLETIN
SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan.
3.—(UP)—The state assembly today ratified the Norris "lame duck" constitutional amendment, and sent the resolution to the senate, where a similar proposal had been introduced yesterday and is pending in committee.

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 3.—
(UP)—The California state legislature today was prepared to receive a landslide of bills, and listen to Governor Rolph's biennial message.

In marked contrast to the carnival spirit that prevailed two years ago at its inauguration, the governor was to read a message pointing out the grave danger to the state's financial structure.

For the first time in history a governor's message to the legislature will be broadcast by radio, a joint meeting of senate and assembly being called in the assembly chambers tonight for the purpose.

Preceding the message, the houses will hold a joint business session, at which Fred B. Wood of Oakland is slated for reappointment as chief of the legislative counsel bureau, a $4,000-a-year position.

At 8:30 p. m. the governor will start his address, an 18,000-word document requiring 2 1/2 hours to deliver. Of this, only the first 45 minutes will be broadcast.

Legislators who will battle for the administration's financial program in both houses will be discussed with the announcement of committee personnel, expected about Thursday.

Sen. Will R. Sharkey, of Martinez is slated as chairman of the senate finance committee and as such will be Governor Rolph's spokesman in the upper house. Sharkey is the author of the Sharkey oil control bill of 1931.

On the assembly side, C. Ray

AUTO DEATH TOTAL IN STATE IS 2118

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3.—(UP)— California came within 225 of leading the nation in number of automobile fatalities during 1932, when 2118 persons were killed in this state, according to a preliminary report of statistics compiled here.

New York, with 2343 deaths, nosed out California for the lead, and the two states were far ahead of all others.

Fatal accidents in California showed a decrease in comparison with 1931, when 2387 persons were killed. Lessened use of motor vehicles was considered a contributory cause of the decline.

In the nation as a whole, 21,767 persons were killed, compared with 25,468 deaths in 1931, according to incomplete reports.

HOOVER DENOUNCES MOVE TO FIGHT REORGANIZATION PLAN

JACK PICKFORD DIES IN PARIS THIS MORNING

Brother of Mary, Succumbs After Long Illness in French Hospital

PARIS, Jan. 3.—Jack Pickford, screen star and brother of Mary Pickford, died at the American hospital today.

Although inactive on the screen lately, he starred in many pictures since beginning his film career in 1919. He was born in Toronto in 1896.

Pickford entered the hospital
October 14 for treatment for a nervous breakdown.

Death occurred at 4 p. m.

Jack Pickford's picture career never flourished like that of his sister, Mary, but was more spectacular at times. He was frequently featured in the headlines as a result of his three marriages and his numerous escapades in Hollywood.

Pickford was the youngest of three children. His parents were John and Charlotte Smith. While the father earned his living and supported his family by acting as a purser on a lake steamer between Toronto and Buffalo, the mother entertained stage ambitions for the three children.

Mary was the first to take to acting. She still was a stage child when Jack, almost a babe in arms, was taken to Toronto to appear in a production. At the time he was the youngest player in Canada.

Enters Movies
In 1909, the infant motion picture industry had made itself felt in most parts of the world, and Mary Pickford was one of the leading lights. She had abandoned the name of Smith and her mother, quick to sense values of publicity, changed her name to Pickford. Jack and his older sister, Lottie, whose screen life was brief, followed suit.

Jack came to Hollywood in 1909 and quickly obtained child parts on the screen. His success was aided by the prestige Mary already had earned. He played in productions at Vitaphone with his sister, Dorothy and Lillian Gish, and other stars of the early days.

Jack married three times. His

FEAR 100 MEMBERS OF CREW ARE DEAD

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 3.—(UP)—
One hundred members of the crew of the Soviet ice breaker Malygin were feared lost today after the ship collided with an iceberg in northern waters.

The Malygin was one of the most famous of Soviet ships engaged in exploration in the Arctic. It took many scientific expeditions into the north.

The Malygin reported the collision by radio last night. The signals ceased suddenly this morning.

The ice breaker Lenin was sent to seek the Malygin.

SENATE OPENS DRIVE TO AID NEEDY PERSONS

Senator Costigan Pleads
For Abandonment of "Penny Pinching"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(UP)—
—Senator Costigan, Dem., of Colorado, today began the drive for further federal relief activities with a plea for the abandonment of "penny pinching" relief compromises on the part of the nation's industrial and political leaders.

Presiding at a hearing of the senate manufacturers' committee on the $500,000,000 relief bill sponsored by himself and Senator La-Follette, Repn., Wis., Costigan expressed the hope the hearing would cause congress to enact adequate emergency relief and arouse public opinion to a "more articulate" support.

"The purpose of these hearings," Costigan said, "is to secure the

FRANK COCHRAN TO RETAIN HIS POST

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 3.— (UP)—Frank Cochran of Los Angeles will remain as secretary to Governor Rolph, it was officially announced today.

William C. McCarthy of the motor vehicle department office there, has been appointed as "legislative contact man" for the Governor, and has already taken up his duties.

Governor Rolph said Cochran originally had been scheduled for a transfer to a state attorneyship in Los Angeles, but that he was being retained because the office here needs an additional secretary.

PRESIDENT RETURNS TO CAPITAL TODAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(UP)—
Tanned and rested, President Hoover returned to Washington at 8 a. m. today from a ten day fishing cruise in Southern waters.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover motored at once from the station to the White House. The morning was cold and raw and damp, a decided change from the warmth in which they had been basking off Florida.

Mr. Hoover and his guests voted the trip a success as far as fishing was concerned, although their luck was bad at first. In two days off Palm Beach, the president brought in five sailfish. The entire party got 24.

JEROME LYONS TAKE SEATS ON COUNTY BOARD

Recently Elected Supervisors Sworn in; Willard
Smith Chairman

W. C. JEROME and LeRoy Lyons, recently elected supervisors from the First and Third districts respectively took their seats this morning on the board of supervisors and Willard Smith, Orange banker, was formally elected chairman of the board for the next two years.

Smith, supervisor from the fourth district, was elected on motion of Supervisor Lyon, seconded by Supervisor John Mitchell, retiring chairman of the board. Mitchell has served as chairman of the board and following the policy, adopted sometime ago, of rotating the chairmanship among the districts, gave way to Smith.

In accepting the seat as chairman of the board Smith said that he appreciated the honor and realized the responsibility that accompanies the job. He explained the policy of rotating the chairmanship every two years and said that this policy had been adopted for the benefit of the county and the supervisors themselves. Smith said that George Jeffrey, supervisor from the Fifth district was entitled to the honor this year but had declined because of his health, leaving him in line for the post.

Lyon in a few brief remarks thanked his supporters for sending him to the office of supervisor and pledged himself to live up to their confidence in him and to carry on an open administration.

Jerome was called upon and said briefly that he would endeavor to fill his office not only to the satisfaction of the First district but to the entire county.

Mitchell, turning over the post of chairman to Smith thanked the members of the old board for their co-operation during the past two years and urged both old and new members to cooperate with their new chairman.

At the conclusion of Mitchell's address Chairman Smith presented him with the gavel that he had used during his administration as chairman. The gavel was made of pine from the White House and had been used in that building for 100 years.

With but two official applications made for appointive officers routine appointments of department heads was deferred until the afternoon session of the board. Indications are that the present office holders will be returned to their present positions.

Mrs. Hattie Allen of Buena Park filed an oral application for the post of head of the Welfare Department to succeed Byron V.
Curry and it was reported that Dr. Fred C. Wright, Santa Ana, has applied for the post of live stock inspector, the position now held by H. L. Wilkins.

Both Supervisors Jerome and Lyon found bouquets, tributes from friends and supporters, upon their desks when they arrived at the court house this morning.

BATTLE FLEET OFF TO SEA MANEUVERS

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 3.—(UP)—
The holidays were over for Uncle Sam's sailors today when the entire combatant force of the U. S. fleet from San Pedro and San Diego areas put out to sea for three days of tactical maneuvers, preparatory for departure to the annual war games.

The battle force and the scouting force each go to different training grounds for rehearsals and then oppose one another in mock conflict Thursday. One night action is scheduled on a three day program.

The war games will start January 23 when one section of the fleet leaves for Honolulu.

Democratic Opposition Is Attacked

Calls on Congress to Keep Hands Off or Give Successor More Power

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(UP)— President Hoover today denounced rising Democratic opposition to his plans for reorganization of governmental activities and called on congress to "keep its hands off now" or give to his successor "much larger powers of independent action."

President Hoover made his attack on the Democratic opposition at a noon press conference held after his return from his Florida fishing trip. It was his first press conference since Sept. 13.

"Either congress must keep its hands off now or they must give to my successor much larger power of independent action than given to any president if there is ever be reorganization," the president said.

"And that authority to be effective should be free of the limitations in the law passed last year, which gives congress the veto power."

The president charged that unless the changes he recommended were enforced all efforts at reorganization of the government would "again be merely make-believe."

Tells of Program

He emphasized that his program called for unification of 58 activities into 9 divisions in the federal government. He vigorously attacked the proposals of Democratic leaders regarding reorganization and denounced their moves as "a backward step."

"The same opposition has now arisen," the president said, "which has defeated every effort at reorganization for 25 years."

The president indicated that he did not intend to send any reor-

SOLON "BROKE" BUT HE GETS TO CAPITAL

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 3.—(UP)—
James S. O'Conner, Los Angeles assemblyman, today declared he was no hitch hiker, he's a Democrat.

O'Conner told newspapermen in Los Angeles that he and his son expected to hitchhike to Sacramento for the legislative session because both he and his campaign committee were broke.

Yesterday he showed up in the state capitol in plenty of time for the opening session. He admitted he did not have to use his thumb once, as a friend brought him all the way from Los Angeles in a sedan.

But O'Conner last night no time in "cashing in" on his membership.
He promptly collected the full travel fare allowed to Los Angeles and got a job for his small boy as a page in the assembly at $2.50 a day.

GATE CRASHING IS HALTED BY POLICE

PASADENA, Jan. 3.—(UP)— Twenty-nine persons were under arrest on "gate crashing" charges today and six persons were injured as result of an incident riot that broke out when several hundred football fans stormed the gates of Rose Bowl during the Southern California-Pittsburgh football game.

Wielding sticks and flinging bricks and bottles, the mob charged police guards on two separate occasions but each riot was quelled by tear gas and night sticks in the hands of defending police and sheriff's deputies. More than 500 persons, mostly youths and small boys formed the second mob that was repelled after charging the gates.

COLDEST NIGHT OF YEAR GRIPS ORANGE COUNTY

Mercury Falls to 26 1/2 Degrees at Garden Grove at 6 a. m. Today

THE COLDEST night in a cold winter struck Orange county last night. Frost, which constitutes the greatest menace to the citrus industry, came in the wake of the cold snap.

Skies were streaked with smoke this morning as the result of smudging operations by citrus growers in practically all parts of the county last night when pots were lighted to protect the fruit from the cold.

The coldest point in the county, according to reports, was in the Garden Grove area, where the mercury in the thermometer sank to a low for the year when the 26 1/2 degree mark was reached.

Citrus fruits were in more danger last night than any other night so far this winter, owing to the duration of the cold during the early morning hours. The cold point was reached about 1 a. m.
and continued until about 6 o'clock, when the rising sun brought relief.

According to reports received by W. H. Wright, deputy county agricultural commissioner, citrus fruit was not damaged, although he pointed out that it is impossible to make a check on the fruit until the damage, if any, shows up.

Temperatures in the Tustin-Santa Ana citrus district dropped to 27 degrees at 1 o'clock this morning. The same figure that was reported from the Yorba Linda, Placentia, and Orange citrus districts.

It was comparatively warm in Santa Ana, the lowest temperature having been recorded at 3 o'clock this morning when the mercury at the Seirens Supply company touched the 32 degree mark.

Temperatures throughout the county were relatively the same Sunday night, although the cold did not come until around 4 o'clock in the morning and therefore did not last long.

RADIO PATROLMAN FATALLY WOUNDED

ALHAMBRA, Cal., Jan. 3.—Radio Patrolman James H. Nerison, 31, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded today by a safe-cracker who was surprised in the act of robbing a local theater.

Nerison, flanked by three fellow officers, ordered the burglar from behind a curtain but a volley from a shotgun was his reply. The charge rattled the officer's abdomen. He was not expected to live.

The gunman escaped in a fusillade fired after him by the other officers. He apparently was joined in his escape by a companion.
Police said a charge of dynamite in front of the theater's safe was about to be touched off when they entered. About $900 was in the vault.

POSTPONE HALLORAN ARRAIGNMENT TODAY

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 3.—(UP)— Arraignment of John J. Halloran, wealthy lumberman, on a grand jury indictment accusing him as an accessory after the murder of Agnes Anne Leroy by Winnie Ruth Judd today was postponed until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

The continuance was granted by Superior Judge Howard C. Speak-man when the new county attorney, Renz L. Jennings, asked time to study a defense motion to set aside and quash the indictment, and also the indictment itself.

Contentions that the Maricopa county grand jury was biased and prejudiced against Halloran when it returned the indictment and that the jury had not been selected properly were contained in the defense motion.

MODERN SOCIAL TRENDS UPSET FAMILY LIFE

Hoover's Research Committee Finds Mechanical Invention Dominates

IN 1258 printed pages, President Hoover's research committee investigation of modern social trends described today the problems arising out of the industrial, physical and social changes since the turn of the century.

The report draws a discomforting picture of the decline of the family as a regulatory influence on life, but holds the hope of a higher degree of coordination between agriculture, labor, industry, government, education, religion and science.

The committee's findings emphasized that the group did not wish "to assume an attitude of alarmist irresponsibility," but added that it would be "highly negligent" to "ignore imminent perils in further advance of our heavy technical machinery over crumbling roads and shaking bridges."

"There are times," the committee reported, "when silence is not neutrality, but assent."

The committee, headed by Dr.
Wesley C. Mitchell of Columbia university, was appointed by President Hoover in 1929. Its report is voluminous, consisting of 1568 pages. The survey was made possible by a grant of funds by the Rockefeller Foundation.

In pointing out the rapidly shifting trends in American life,
the report says:

"Our life has become disjointed and upset in many activities because social changes are taking place so fast in some quarters and so slow in others.

"These unequal speeds are causing jams, dangers and tensions, throwing the social organization out of balance and causing for a pre-Jackson Day celebration in connection with the event.

man; a majority of the Democratic congressmen-elect, and the 25 cisco, who is out of the state.

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE IS REPORTED

Chinese Preparing Defense Expecting Another Attack on Shanhaikwan

PEACE MOVES MADE

Jap Troops Aided by Seven Airplanes, Field Guns and Pair of Destroyers

PEIPING, Jan. 3.—(UP)—The Shanhaikwan Chinese garrison today repulsed a formidable Japanese attack from land and sea and air. It was emulation of the brilliant defense of Shanghai by the Chinese 19th route army last year.

The Japanese assembled seven airplanes, 19 field guns, two destroyers, and 5000 infantry at Shanhaikwan, reports received here said, but withdrew after suffering heavy losses in an hour of fighting.
(Dispatches to the United Press from Changchun, capital of the Manchukuo government, quoted Manchukuo officials as saying that peace negotiations were opened at Shanhaikwan after the Chinese asking that fighting cease.)

Gen. Hu Chu Kuo, commander of the garrison, reported by radio to Marshall Chang Hsueh Liang that Japanese infantry tried to carry a breach in the southeast wall of Shanhaikwan opened by artillery and airplane bombardment, but were driven back by Chinese machine gunners.

The Chinese were repairing their defenses, expecting another assault.
The Japanese losses at Shanhaikwan were said to have angered military leaders, increasing the possibility that hostilities might spread throughout North China.

The status of events at Shanhaikwan was uncertain late tonight.

MRS. MOSKOWITZ IS CALLED BY DEATH

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(UP)—
Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, confidential adviser to Alfred E. Smith, was mourned today by Democratic party leaders, by thousands of friends and co-workers, and by the poor to whom she had devoted her life.

She died yesterday, the friend of Governor H. Lehman, President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, and many other leading Democrats. She was credited with much of the strategy that gave Smith the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928.

Mrs. Moskowitz fell down the stairs of her home several weeks ago. Both arms were broken. The shock weakened her and she contracted pneumonia, but was recovering when her heart weakened. Last week she suffered her first heart attack. The second caused death.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Jan. 3.
(To the Editor of The Register:) Same faces, same men issued New Year "outlook" predictions. It looks like they just stay in business all year to get to tell "what the New Year has in store for us." Everyone have enough to live on no matter what happens.
But I have never seen a paper print what a poor man thought of the "coming year."
Suppose at a hanging in a jail the reporters got statements from the warden, and all the spectators, but no one asked the convicted man
"what he thought the future had in store for him?" So tomorrow after these others have all been forgotten as usual, I have one from just such a man to tell you.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

TED CRAIG TO GET HIGH POST IN COMMITTEE

Robinson of Merced was being considered for chairmanship of the important ways and means committee, which would place him in a strategic position as administration floor leader.

Sen. Ralph E. Swing of San Bernardino, who is understood to have declined the governor's offer to represent him on the senate floor, is slated for chairman of the judiciary committee.

Other senate committee chairmanships believed to have been decided include Senator Walter H. Duval, Santa Paula, revenue and taxation; Frank W. Mixer, Exeter, irrigation; Herbert W. Slater, Santa Rosa, education, and either W. P. Rich, Marysville or R. R. Ingels, Ukiah, governmental efficiency.

On the assembly side, Edward (Ted) Craig of Brea was made chairman of the attaches committee, which included Samuel Robinson, Imperial; Harry B. Riley, Long Beach; Samuel M. Greene, Inglewood; Melvyn I. Cronin, San Francisco; Charles W. Fisher, Oakland, and Albert F. Ross, Redding.

Setting up a bag limit for bullfrogs, assemblyman E. H. Zion, Modesto.

Returns from Frat Convention In East

Enroute home from Washington D. C., where he has been attending the national convention of Phi Mu Epsilon, national music fraternity, Halstead McCormack, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCormack, choirmaster at the Santa Ana Church of the Messiah and senior student at U. S. C. is concluding an eventful vacation trip.

McCormack, who is president of the Trojan chapter of Phi Mu Epsilon, represented his school at the national gathering. In a letter to friends in Santa Ana, the young musician told of playing the great organ in the Chicago University chapel and meeting many celebrities of the musical and educational world. McCormack has won many honors at U. S. C. since he enrolled in 1929, chief of which is the presidency of the College of Music, and membership in the all-university Legislative council, both of which he now holds.

numberless national problems with promise of others to emerge. "Change in itself is not an evil, however, as hope for social betterment in the future lies in the fact that we can adjust ourselves to change."

In its review of findings, the committee records long time social problems, especially those that will be in the process of solution and treatment for generations, pointing out both the hazards and benefits to society arising out of shifting social trends.

In discussing the possibility of revolution, the report says:

"Unless there can be a more impressive integration of social skills and fusing of social purposes than is revealed by recent trends, there can be no assurance that these alternatives, with their accompaniments of violent revolution, dark periods of serious repression of libertarian and democratic forms, the proscription and loss of many useful elements in the present productive system, can be averted."

The committee, in its review of findings, says: "Social invention keeps too far behind mechanical invention. Thus we are faced with the necessity of finding a way to make full use of the march of science, invention and engineering skill without victimizing many of our workers. Unless social invention is speeded up, mechanical invention slows down, grave maladjustments are bound to occur."

"It is important to develop a policy which will enable us to bring together as a whole all the disjointed factors and elements in our social life, so that labor, industry, government, education, religion and science may eventually reach a higher degree of coordination in the next phase of our national development."

"Two great departments of our American system, the governmental organization and the economic organization, are growing at a rapid pace, while two other historic institutions, the church and the family, have declined in social

Chinese officials declined to admit the Japanese had occupied the city but insisted the Chinese had repulsed a second assault after a heavy Japanese shelling which caused many fires to break out.

Japanese, American and Italian sources said the main body of Chinese troops was withdrawing towards Chinwangtao and Chang but a Chinese spokesman here said the garrison at Shanhaiwan was holding its positions tonight and that its morale was high.

THREE WARSHIPS SENT TO CHINWANTAO

TOKIO, Jan. 3.—(UP)—It was announced officially here today that three Japanese warships from Port Arthur and one from Tsingtao had been dispatched to Chinwangtao, off the coast of Shanhaiwan.

The war department announced that the districts around the south gate of Shanhaiwan were completely occupied at noon following a joint attack by the Japanese army and navy.

The United Press learned officially that additional warships, now stationed at the Sasebo base, have been ordered ready for emergency duty.

Despite the New Year holiday, the British and U. S. embassies were staffed throughout the day awaiting news of developments at Shanhaiwan.

significance, though not in human values.

"The church and the family have lost many of their traditional regulatory influences over human behavior. While industry and labor have assumed a larger degree of control over the conduct of our people. But government, like the family, has been backward in strengthening its social services to meet new conditions."

P.-T. A. FLOAT WINS PRIZE AT ROSE TOURNEY

Santa Ana's entry in the annual Pasadena Tournament of Roses, entered by the Parent-Teacher's association, won a special prize in the parade event yesterday.

Doris Lorraine Faupel, tiny six-year-old girl, was costumed in silver tights and stood on the float, playing a trumpet. Parla Nell Clayton portrayed the "Lady of the Silver Moon," attired in a colorful costume of silver and magenta.

The float was mounted with a huge silver moon crescent, and was decorated with magenta, violet blue and yellow flowers.

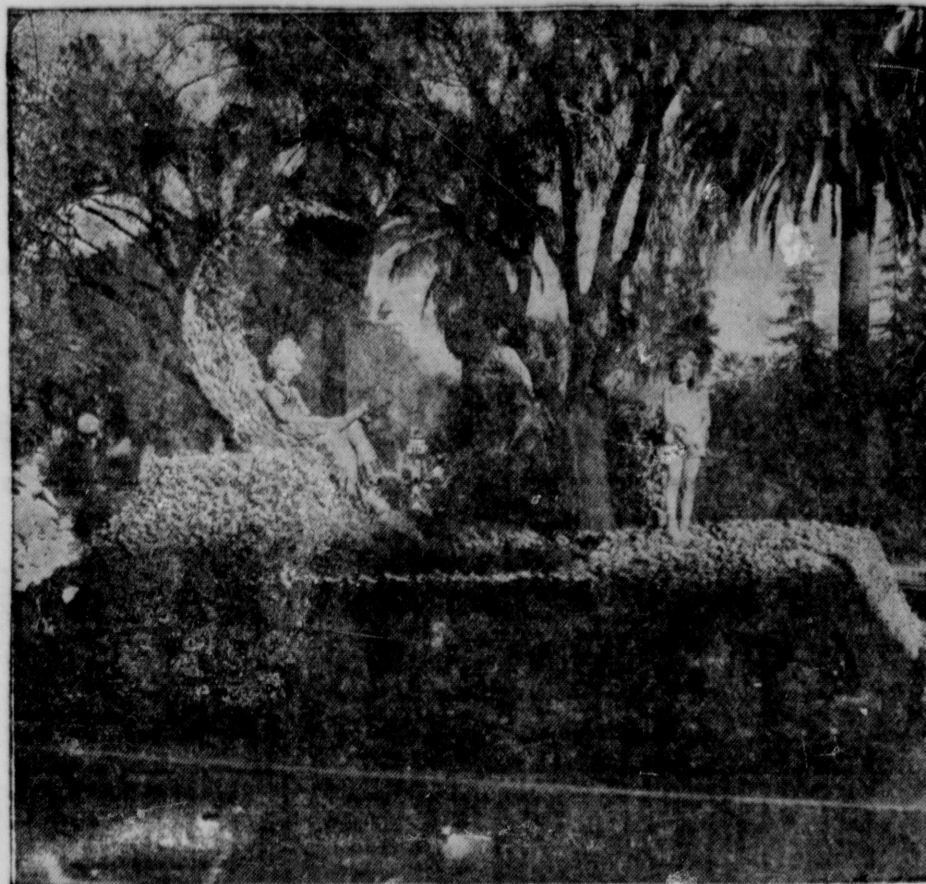

The "Lady of the Silver Moon" sat in the crescent of the moon. Some 1500 sprays of blue statice, 25,000 magenta mimbryanthemum blossoms and 100 ropes of asparagus plumosus went into the building of the float, which received a special award. Hazel Nell Bemus and co-wives from the P.-T. A. designed the float.

"Hansel and Gretel," the Glendale float that won the grand sweepstakes prize, was an outstanding float, with many elaborate features. The Long Beach entry won the theme prize.

The Santa Ana float was accompanied by the Santa Ana American Legion band.

organization order to congress before the end of his administration on March 4 unless he had some assurance that they would not be blocked by Democratic opposition.

The president said in part:

"The proposals of Democratic leaders in congress to stop the reorganization of government functions which I have made is a backward step. The same opposition has now arisen which has defeated every effort at reorganization for 25 years. The chairman of one house committee disclosed:

"Many members of the administration itself oppose Mr. Hoover's plan," but that he has not called them to testify because "he saw no reason to embarrass them." He could add that outside groups, congressional committees and members of the congress fear a reduction of influence in the administration of these functions. The proposal to transfer the reorganization to my successor is simply a device by which it is hoped that these proposals can be defeated. Statements that I have made for over 10 years as to the opposition which has always thwarted reorganization have come true. Five years ago I said:

"Practically every single item of such a program has invariably met with opposition of some vested official or it has disturbed some vested habit, and offended some organized minority."

FORMER CHANCELLOR OF GERMANY CALLED

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—(UP)—Former Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno died today of heart disease.

Dr. Cuno was chancellor from November, 1922, to August, 1923, and was succeeded by Gustav Stresemann. The French invaded the Ruhr for non-payment of reparations in kind during Dr. Cuno's administration, and the country reached the high point of postwar inflation while he was in office.

Dr. Cuno was 57 years old. He had not been active in politics recently, but was often mentioned as a candidate for chancellor.

first wife was Olive Thomas, who married him in 1917 at a time when she was known as the most beautiful woman on the screen. She died suddenly after swallowing some tablets. Some reports had her a suicide, while others claimed she mistook poison for headache tablets.

In 1922, Pickford was married to Marilyn Miller, who had just swept the theater off its feet by her star performance in Florenz Ziegfeld's musical comedy, "Sonny." Four years later Miss Miller obtained a divorce.

Takes Third Wife
Mary Mulhern, another Ziegfeld beauty, was Pickford's third wife. They were married in Del Monte, Calif., in 1926 after an automobile accident from Hollywood. Miss Mulhern was constantly at his bedside during a long illness more than a year ago. Last February, she obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from him.

During the past three years Pickford had engaged in directorial and scenario work rather than acting as his health had not been good. His last screen successes as an actor were in "Brown of Harvard," "Exit Smiling," "War."

REPEAL OF STATE'S "GIN" LAW SOUGHT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 3.—(UP)—Repeal of California's "gin marriage" law, requiring 3 days' notice of intention to wed, was sought in a bill introduced in the assembly today by Assemblyman Percy G. West of Sacramento.

Since enactment of the law in 1927, marriages in the state have steadily declined, West said. He hopes adoption of his bill will act as a stimulus to matrimony.

Reforms in the Matrimon act, providing for establishment of improvement districts were proposed in measures introduced by Assemblymen Lawrence Cobb, Los Angeles; William Hoffman, Oakland, and John T. Rawls, San Pedro.

SENATE OPENS DRIVE TO AID NEEDY PERSONS

enactment by congress of legislation adequate for the time being to relieve distress.

"Approximately 12,000,000 are unemployed and in addition a large number of persons are receiving part help."

"The most startling development of this depression," he continued, "has been the unwillingness of a large part of our national leadership, both industrial and political, to face the facts."

Past relief efforts, he said, have been characterized by an unwillingness to act and subsequent "penny-pinching compromises."

Dr. Jacob Billikopf, executive director of the Federation of Jewish Charities, Philadelphia, warned the committee that "there is no cause for optimism toward relief work as we face 1933."

"Within the past two years," he said, "the burden of unemployment has increased 124 per cent."

"Resources are being used up month after month, and savings exhausted."

Billikopf said the relief need in Philadelphia had not yet reached its winter peak, and that he did not think it would until March.

In reply to a question by Senator Wheeler, Dem., Mont., he said he saw no improvement in employment.

A study of 400 Philadelphia families in July, Billikopf said, disclosed they were "bogged down in debt and retained only a vestige of credit."

These 400 families, he said, owed $41,000 in rent at that time. "In my estimate," he continued, "today in Philadelphia there are 35,000 to 50,000 families who have not paid their rent for from three months to two years."

He cited as an example of distress one household that owed $45 to the grocer, $112 to the baker, $45 to a department store, $350 to relatives and $300 on a six percent commercial loan.

This family, he said, was subsisting on a diet of bread, potatoes and spaghetti.

The average weekly allowance for a destitute family of five, he said, is now a five dollar food allowance. He described this as "frightfully pitiful."

RE-APPOINTED

Leon O. Whitsell, of Orange, below, has been re-appointed by Governor James Rolph to serve a second six year term on the state railroad commission.

Leon O. Whitsell, Orange citrus grower, has been reappointed a member of the state railroad commission by Governor James Rolph. Whitsell's appointment came on the heels of a movement which was started in Orange county by friends of T. L. McFadden of Anaheim and Placentia to have the governor name McFadden to the post.

The appointment, which became effective today, is for a six year term with a salary of $8000 annually.

At the same time Whitsell was reappointed, Governor Rolph announced the appointment of Mox Socha of Los Angeles, who was competing with Whitsell for the position, as examiner for the railroad commission.

Whitsell was first appointed to the commission in 1924 to serve an unexpired term of two years. Governor Friend Richardson reappointed him in 1926 for the six year term which just ended. Whitsell is well known in Orange county, having been a president of the Orange Chamber of Commerce and being well known as a rancher.

Farm bureaus in the state backed the appointment of Whitsell for the new term. R. W. Black, for the new term. R. W. Black, burn, state farm bureau president, endorsed him. Petitions bearing signatures of about 1500 growers, ranchers and business men of Orange county were sent to Governor Rolph urging his reappointment. The petitions were circulated by the Orange County Farm Bureau.

Former S. A. Boy Called by Death

Death was attributed to malaria fever, the child being stricken on Christmas day. The body will be shipped to San Bernardino for burial and funeral arrangements will be made later.

PIANIST TO BE SOLOIST WITH CADMAN CLUB

With Mme. Marie Mikova, concert pianist of Los Angeles, as soloist, the Cadman Choral club will give its first concert of the season tonight at the Ebell club. Charles Wakefield Cadman, honorary president of the club, will be present, and some of the other distinguished honorary members are also expected.

Wm. Clare Hall, director of the club, is well known to Santa Ana audiences, having conducted the Treble Clef club for several seasons. The ensemble of the club consists this season of 40 members.

Mme. Mikova who played here two years ago and whose playing with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra last fall caused Carl Bronson to use the words "sensation" and "furore" in describing it, will play two groups of selections between numbers by the ensemble. The program for the evening is as follows:

"How Summer Came," Joseph W. Clokey; Theme Varie—Opus 16, No. 3 (Paderewski) by Marie Mikova; "The Heart of Her" and "Memories" both by Charles W. Cadman; "The Mill" (Piernet); "Chinese Lullaby" (Bowers-Riegler); "The Last Night" (Clokey); "Melody" (Dai Young); "Diverston" (Carpenter); "Festival" (Prokofiev); "Pasant" (Smetana); Marie Mikova. "Medley from the South" (Harry Hale Pike); "The Bells of St. Mary's" (A. Emmett Adams).

An informal reception for members of the club and their guests will be held after the concert.

FIVE JAILED IN BOGUS MONEY INVESTIGATION

Believed to be part of a counterfeit gang and suspected of other crimes that may be traced to them, five men are being held in the county jail, rounded up by sheriff's officers on January 1.

The sheriff's office refused until today to divulge what the men were wanted for.

The men gave the names of Homer King, 32, James F. King, 27, Vardeman Moore, 21, and LeVerne Moore, 19, and Sam Lindeboom, 18. All live in Buena Park.

Although the men are booked at the county jail on various charges, they are really being held for making counterfeit half dollars and passing them in Anaheim, Fullerton, Brea, Los Angeles, Santa Ana and Long Beach, it is said.

Lindeboom is booked for having a pistol in his possession, and Vardeman Moore is charged with transportation of liquor, according to the jail books. The other three men are booked for investigation of robbery.

Find Moulds
Deputy sheriffs yesterday, with W. W. Ash, head of the Southern California division of the secret service for the government, with a Los Angeles officer, went to the home of the King men yesterday where they are reported to have found plaster of paris moulds for the making of coins and a quantity of metal used.

The sheriff's office also claims it can produce witnesses who will testify that the men attempted to pass counterfeit coins at their places of business and can produce several witnesses who will say they have seen the "gang" making the counterfeit coins.

With the exception of Lindeboom, the men will be turned over to the treasury department, it was indicated, for prosecution as counterfeiters.

Sheriff's office reports indicate that James F. King has served a term in the Texas state reformatory on a forgery charge, and that Vardeman Moore recently served a term in the Los Angeles county jail on a charge of using a motorist's car without the owner's consent.

Investigate Robbery
While the men are still being held in jail here, sheriff's officers continue their investigation on the theory that the "gang" may also be implicated in a number of hold-ups in this county recently and most particularly in connection with the robbery of Charlie Gillis, erstwhile bootlegger, who was badly beaten up at his home on Lincoln avenue, west of Anaheim, several weeks ago, when five men held him up at the points of revolvers and robbed him of $40 in cash.

Sheriff's officers are not sure they can connect Lindeboom as being a member of the gang. He was found with a pistol in his pocket and is an alien, officers said. An alien cannot have a firearm in his possession in the country and the crime is a felony. He probably will be charged with this offense, it was said.

From Hollywood comes an extraordinary announcement. A movie actress is in need of a name, and $800.00 in cash will be paid for the best suggestion. You can give her yours, or any other name you think of, it may mean $800.00 to you.

This movie actress, whom you have probably seen on the screen of your favorite motion picture theatre, is the beautiful Edith Roark. Like most of the stars, she prefers to use a name other than her own, and in order to help her obtain it, $800.00 in cash is offered to anyone who is quick in sending in the name selected.

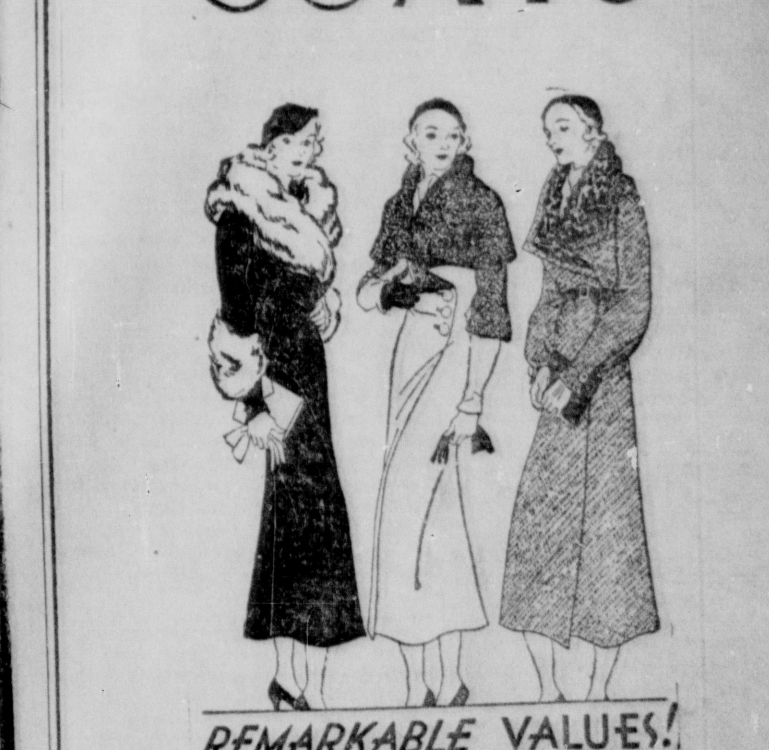

Miss Roark's publicity director says, "Most any name may win. It may be your very own, a name of a friend or relative, or a coined name made up by you. Readers of this announcement are urged to send their suggestions for a name at once, because $200.00 extra will be given the winner if name is mailed and postmarked before January 8, 1933. Just make it easy to pronounce and easy to remember. But send it right away, or you may be late for the promptness prize.

All entries must be sent to the Publicity Director's office, George Blake, Studio M-163, 1023 N. Sycamore Ave., Hollywood, California. Only one suggestion for a name should be submitted by each contestant. Everyone is invited to submit a name, and in case of ties, duplicate awards will be given. Officials say that any name may win the $800.00, even if submitted on a postcard or scrap of paper. If you can use $800.00, here is an opportunity to get it. Send your suggestion at once.

S. A. COUPLE WILL OBSERVE 71ST WEDDING ANNIVERSARY THIS YEAR; MAKE RESOLUTIONS

New Year resolutions happen in the best of regulated families, and in not a few of them, the resolutions pertain to such matters as the proverbial soft answer to the equally proverbial wrath. There are untold scores of Santa Ana homes, in which the embarkation upon the year of 1933, is to the accompaniment of self promises to bear and forbear.

But according to Nathaniel Travis, 821 North Ross street, the makers of these promises are mostly amateurs, and as he has said from the standpoint of his almost 81 years, why not let a professional tell you something about it?

For in 1833, just dawning, Mr. and Mrs. Travis will celebrate their seventy-first wedding anniversary. And if 71 years of celebrating each January 1 by making New Year resolutions together doesn't make one a professional, what does?

Chief among the current resolutions in the minds of Mr. and Mrs. Travis, is that of avoiding home and all the temptations therein displayed. For with over 78 years of wedded life happily accomplished, why run any unnecessary risks?

Married in 1862
It was back in their native Nova Scotia that Mr. and Mrs. Travis were wedded in August, 1862, and to hear them tell of the quaintly lovely little seaport of Yarmouth, their former home, and the serene valley where that home was located, is second in interest only to the tales that Mr. Travis can spin of his experiences as he set forth to see California.

For California beckoned to him even in his boyhood days, especially after a wearisome uncle returned from a hazardous voyage "around the Horn," to tell of the wonders of that golden land.

But the young people had been married several years, and had small children before the opportunity came to the young husband and father to realize his dreams. Then it was to the northwest he came, only later working southward to California. He was here for three years before returning to Nova Scotia and his little family. It was on his second trip to the west that Mrs. Travis accompanied him, and this time she too, with true pioneer spirit, bade farewell to her children to fare forth with her husband.

It was several years before the entire family was reunited here in California which has been the Travis home ever since.

Like Young People
To friends of Mr. and Mrs. Travis, their chief characteristic seems to be an eternal youthfulness. No one would dream that they have seen 80 new years dawn, for the first guess would be that perhaps the number they have actually seen has been nearer the number of years they have been wedded. Each is blessed with a keen sense of humor, and with a genuine liking for young people.

Keep yourself surrounded with young people if you want to stay young in spirit," is part of the advice given by Mr. Travis, "Dad" Travis, as he is known among his brother Elks.

As a member of Santa Ana lodge No. 394, B. P. O. E., "Dad" Travis was prominent in welcoming the recent visit of Grand Exalted Ruler Floyd E. Thompson, just as he is active in all affairs of the lodge. And brothers of the Antlered Herd freely predict that they will dance at the one hundredth birthday of both Mr. and Mrs. Travis.

And by the way, as an example of their youthful qualities, the Travises have become air minded, since they took their first airplane flight within the year. In contemplating the flight, Mrs. Travis was awed and frightened, and thought probably would be called upon to pray every minute she was in the air. But she became so deeply interested and so delighted with the sensation that even her prayers were forgotten—a statement that brought

SPECIAL ISSUE CARRIES STORY OF THIS COUNTY

The annual Mid-winter special edition of the Los Angeles Times, which was issued today, contains the following article on Orange county:

"Orange county, southern neighbor of Los Angeles county, in an area of 800 square miles between the Santa Ana Mountain and the sea, presents a continuous panorama of orange groves, lemon groves, walnut groves and truck farms. Diversified agriculture tells the story of the county's balanced prosperity. Last year $40,000,000 worth of crops was produced on the 500 farms in the county. In the heart of the blue-ribbon citrus district, Orange county, according to economists, has felt the effects of devastating economic forces probably as little as any community in the nation.

"Orange county's progress does not depend entirely on farming, however. In the larger cities of the county there are numerous manufacturing plants, at the beaches and the great Orange County Harbor there are thriving resort centers, and in the northern end of the county are some of the most productive oil fields in the State. Before restrictions were put on oil production these fields yielded $40,000,000 annually.

"More than 118,000 persons live in Orange county, most of them in typical California homes within easy traveling distance of both the mountains and the sea. During the past year ranching on a small scale has developed greatly in the county. Here one can grow almost any fruit or vegetable the year around. Frosts are a rarity.

"The widening and improvement of the great coast highway was continued during last year, a three-lane paved road being completed from Long Beach to Laguna Beach. With the completion of the stretch between Laguna and Dana Point now under construction, there will be a three-way road along Orange county's entire 40-mile coast."

The section then continues with individual stories for the following cities: Santa Ana, Anaheim, Fullerton, Orange, Buena Park, La Habra, Costa Mesa, Garden Grove, Newport Beach, Balboa, Seal Beach, Sunset Beach, Laguna and Arch Beach, San Juan Capistrano, Doheny Park, Dana Point and San Clemente.

The special edition of the Times will be mailed to thousands of homes in other parts of the nation carrying the story of the charm and accomplishments of Southern California.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

BUDGET
The inside crowd here has been shocked by apparently authentic private word from Hyde Park that Mr. Roosevelt is not so enthused about balancing the budget to a penny.

The word was brought down by an economist in Mr. Roosevelt's service. He advocated adoption of a budget formula to maintain the confidence of the people in government securities and yet relieve present day taxpayers from excessive burdens. He would do that by carrying over a small deficit to be paid off in future better years.

A tax reduction instead of an increase might be possible under these circumstances.

The news was shocking to the men up front because it means tossing out the window the twelve years old theories of Mellon and Mills. It seems that is the only kind of Treasury financing Washingtonians of both parties have ever thought of.

Under that system we have had

almost annual tampering with taxation. The new idea would be to fix taxes at a certain fairly permanent level. The deficits of bad years would be paid off in the excess returns of good years.

The people and business would be relieved thereby of excessive burdens in times like these.

Apparently the idea is in the sounding out process. Gov. Roosevelt is not wedded to it exactly but is just trying to find out how the boys would feel about it. The boys have not sufficiently recovered from their surprise to know how they feel.

Unquestionably a definite policy will be ironed out in the forthcoming conferences between Roosevelt and Garner and the other Congressional leaders.

The sole difficulty is whether the price of government bonds can be maintained under it. That depends on whether the people would have confidence in the ability of the idea to work out safely over a period of years. A conservative administration of the plan might establish such confidence.

Bankers might not like it. They favor certainties instead of prospects.

MONEY

The most important news out of Washington in the next two months will be the Harrison investigation of economies in the Senate finance committee.

More conservatives every day are swinging around publicly and privately to the search for a safe means of establishing easier money—the real motive behind the investigation. Democrats near or at the top are encouraging the move. Latest public convert is Senator George of Georgia who is playing with the idea of dollar revaluation. There are more who have not come out yet.

Those who should know are betting even money that something important will emerge from that hearing.

The move is being furthered by certain industries howling to high heaven about foreign competition due to depreciated currencies. The fishing, rubber shoe and lumber industries apparently are suffering most if protests being received by Congressmen are any measure. You cannot reach the problem through tariff revision without a dizzy sliding scale. Furthermore, the Democrats have given private pledges that general tariff revision will not soon be undertaken.

Senator Borah has a speech in his system on the subject. He will probably advocate revaluation of the dollar or more currency under the Glass-Borah amendment. That may start the ball rolling.

There is indirect evidence that the Treasury has tried to thwart the full effect of the Glass-Borah amendment. At least information to that effect is in the hands of certain Senators. It indicates pressure has been exerted on national banks to prevent issuance of currency under the amendment.

Less than $200,000,000 has been issued. Around $960,000,000 could be issued. By amendment the maximum could be boosted to be between three and four billions.

The question is whether that would be enough to increase prices.

CHANGES

Those who make the wheels go round here are beginning to suspect the New Deal is going to be newer than they thought.

Ordinarily a majority of everyone in Washington is against anything novel. They would rather keep what they have than experiment with something they know is better. That condition is being changed underneath for Roosevelt.

A majority in Congress is determined to give him a good chance to do what he wants. That is why they will permit him free rein in making government economies. They would not have done that with Hoover.

REFINANCING

The Treasury has been secretly sounding out bankers on refinancing government credit for longer terms. It means a higher interest rate. The base probably will be around 2 per cent. Short term money has been obtained recently at less than half that. Nobody knows how long that practice can keep up.

NOTES

Tammany candidate for Speaker O'Connor claims to have enough votes to stop Rainey. . . . No one but him can count them. . . . Yarns about Mr. Roosevelt mixing up in the House Speakership roughhouse are not true. . . . He is not particularly close to any of those running or threatening to run. . . . The forgotten soul of the Administration is Eugene Meyer. . . . He has not uttered publicly since Mr. Hoover's Columbus campaign speech. . . . Is he smart? . . . You will find out when Mr. Roosevelt continues him as head of the Federal Reserve Board. . . . A certain applicant for a diplomatic post was told at the State Department there would be nothing doing in that line until February when examinations might be held for Russian diplomatic jobs. . . . Also a resolution for Russian recognition will be introduced shortly in the Senate and hearings may be held on it. . . . The best information indicates actual recognition will await the coming of Roosevelt.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

ANGEL
The first-string angel of the Democratic Party is on the frying pan so far as an important group of Roosevelt advisors is concerned. He gives them a Wall Street tieup that they don't care for and his tendency to have a finger in every pie also irks them. They would like to oust him from the inner circle but—after all—one doesn't make an angel walk the plank when there is a deficit to be met.

INVESTIGATION
The report is current in high places that the gentleman in question will be a particular target at the forthcoming renewal of the stock market investigation. This leads to the speculation that the results of the inquiry might lead to his political disqualification without embarrassment to party leaders.

The financial community in general has a lot of confidence in Richard Whitney and rate him a fair match for Seabury, Steiner or Untermeyer. Several individuals and organizations would squirm plenty under skillful questioning—but the point is that they would squirm in their capacities as customers rather than as brokers.

There is an important bank which would be a pushover or any of the suggested inquisitors. The bank can figure nothing to do except to grin and bear it.

SECURITIES

Roosevelt Administration will probably sponsor certain attractive measures looking to control and regulation of securities issued to the public.

The great bulk of this business is done by large banks of commerce, either through affiliates or direct. Forcing these sales out of the hands of national banks, all members of the Federal Reserve, into the hands of private bankers under no control or supervision by Federal Reserve does not seem to public advantage. It is thought by those friendly to Roosevelt that steps will be taken to prevent taking the sales of securities from national banks.

There is a sound and practical way to secure the desired control and regulation of this business. First, to force the security business out of banks themselves and to compel banks wishing to continue such operations to do so through affiliates. Second, to control and regulate these affiliates through the Federal Reserve authorities.

It is held that such action by the new Administration would achieve beneficial results in the general banking field comparable to those brought about by Wilson in commercial banking by passing the Federal Reserve Act.

MARKET

Customers men who always looked forward to a harvest of tax selling orders in late December feel very aggrieved at Congress. The change in the income tax law cut to a whisper the selling to establish losses. The December volume was bitterly disappointing.

Powerful financial interests which have been mildly playing the bull side since mid-summer have suddenly turned profoundly bullish. There is irreverent comment in the Street to the effect that this is the most hopeful sign in a long time.

MOTORS

Something is happening behind the scenes in General Motors. There has been quite a wave of selling from important sources to an extent which implies shifting of control. The story runs that Morgan factors have not been able to enforce their will in the company's management and are pulling out of the picture by degrees.

This situation is comparable to that in U. S. Steel a few months back.

BANKS

The Insull collapse has been a feeder to the ever-growing friction between New York and Western banks.

The New Yorkers were singularly cautious about passing out loans before Insull affairs became critical. Then they clamped the lid down tight at a point where the Westerners claimed the situation could have been saved. There are at least two Chicago banks which will be gunning for revenge if an opportunity ever offers.

There is one private bank in this city which is a bank. Its deposits are reliably reported as well in excess of the billion and a half deposited in the Chase—the largest commercial bank in the country. The institution referred to pays no interest on deposits and will not accept an account of less than a million dollars. Several large corporations keep most of their cash there.

FIRE DESTROYS CAR, GARAGE HERE TODAY

Fire, starting when an oil stove exploded in the garage of Lyman Gittins, of 1661 Willets street, completely destroyed an automobile and a garage this morning.

The loss was estimated by fire department officials at $500. Gittins is out of the city at the time and could not be questioned as to the value of the car or other contents of the garage.

Firemen were severely handicapped in getting water to the blaze.

ASSERTS YOUTH IS TREASURE OF THE CHURCH

"The Church's Treasure in Childhood and Youth" was the theme discussed by Dr. Ray C. Harker, of Anaheim, speaking last night at the Spurgeon M. E. church, at the first of the union services being conducted by the churches of Santa Ana in observance of the annual week of prayer.

"Not only is the church's treasure found in the children and youth," said the speaker, "but also a challenging responsibility and a wonderful opportunity. We must recognize the value of youth, in order to realize our responsibility for conserving this great treasure. We must understand the possibilities bound up in our children if we are to care for them so that their potentialities will become realities."

"There are two methods of life saving and rescue. I have seen on the seashore the life-saving crew, whose duty it is to make their way to the wrecked ship and rescue those on board. Again I have observed the lighthouse, placed in the danger spot to warn vessels to keep away. It seems to me that the lighthouse method is far better than the rescue method. It is better to save the ship or the life before it goes on the rocks. It is better to form than to reform—better to train a child to tell the truth than to attempt to reform a liar."

Must Combat Evil

"There are powerful forces in our day that look upon youth as a grand opportunity for pillage. For the sake of money or other gains, these forces are willing to fix upon our youth destructive habits, and to lead them into evil ways. If the church can realize the values wrapped up in this treasure of ours, we can combat the evil forces that would steal our treasure from us."

"Childhood is sacred. Children are a trust committed to us by the Lord, to be conserved and developed by us for Him. Childhood is plastic, tender, susceptible to leadership, and the impressions made upon children are the lasting impressions of life. Fathers and mothers are the interpreters of God to the child, and on them devolves the obligation to help the child understand the nature and the love of God by showing divine qualities in their own lives."

"I am not pessimistic about youth. Our young folks are fine, full of noble possibilities, eager for a chance to make good. They are open to criticism. So are older people. We are none of us perfect, but it is our privilege, as leaders of youth, to help produce a generation that shall be better than the one of which we are a part."

Service Tonight

Dr. Harker was heard by an attentive audience, made up of representatives from most of the churches of the city. Miss Irma Baxter was the soloist of the evening, giving an appealing rendition of "I Shall Not Pass Again This Way." The Rev. E. W. Matz, president of the Ministerial association, presided, assisted by the Rev. T. W. Ringland and the Rev. O. W. Reinus.

Tonight's service will be addressed by the Rev. Virgil K. Ledbetter, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Anaheim. Dr. C. M. Aker will preside over the service, and the music will be provided by the choir of the First Evangelical church.

The service tonight and each night of the week will be held at the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, and all people are invited to attend and participate in the service.

ARREST THREE FOR DEATH OF SANTA ANA MAN

Three men are being held in the county jail at Ventura in connection with the death of Charles W. Ryan, 55, glassworker, of 515 North McClay street, Santa Ana, who was instantly killed on New Year's day, as he stepped from a bus at the intersection of Long Beach Boulevard and Walnut street, in Southgate.

His death, reported in Santa Ana yesterday, occurred when he was struck by a car occupied by three youths. The body was carried for a distance of more than 100 feet and then hurled into the gutter. The car did not stop, witnesses said, but speeded up and was soon lost in traffic.

When witnesses reached Ryan, he was dead.

A few hours later three youths, Douglas Robinson, 23, James Conner, 21, of Moorpark and Adrian Jones, 19, of Santa Paula, stopped at the police station in Ventura and asked police to determine how badly the man was injured. They were promptly jailed.

According to the police the men admitted it was their car which struck Jones. They said they became confused and sped away from the scene.

C. L. Fortner, of 6821 Benson street, Huntington Park, told officers that Ryan was struck soon after he had stepped from a bus. The body is at the Easterling Funeral Home, in Huntington Park, where a coroner's inquest probably will be held today.

Civil War Veteran Gets Final Call

Review of Dance Story to Be Given

"Invitation to the Waltz" is to be the subject of the Book Review hour over KREG at 10:30 tomorrow morning. It was announced today by studio officials. The book was written by Rosamond Lehmann.

"In this book the shyness and worries of adolescence are presented in all their half-humorous, half tragic colors," said Mary Burke King, who conducts this popular radio feature program. "It concerns the first dance of a daughter of an English family, a program affair with all the attendant uncertainties and anxieties that once vexed the hearts of maidens in more formal days."

weeks duration. The family residence was 1301 North Broadway. Arrangements had not been made today for the funeral services, but word is expected to arrive from relatives in the East in regards to the services, which will be in charge of the Smith and Tuthill Funeral home.

SANTA ANA BRANCH
Main and 4th Streets
FRANK J. WAS, Manager

SECURITY-FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF LOS ANGELES

SANTA ANA enjoys the advantages of a great metropolitan bank.

The Santa Ana Branch centrally located, offers every convenience and facility—Savings, Commercial, Trust, Safe Deposit, &c.

This is an integral part of an institution with more than Half a Billion Dollars in resources, $40,000,000 Capital and Surplus, and with a state-wide reputation for its safety and its conservative management.

BUSINESS BETTERMENTS BRING DOLLARS TO OUR COMMUNITY

BY GEO. A. RAYMER
Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce

During the past year, the chamber of commerce has functioned 100 per cent in its particular sphere of activity, and while there are no outstanding achievements, yet the intangible accomplishments must be recognized as a real factor in community betterment.

Obviously, lack of space prohibits an enumeration of all of the things done by the chamber of commerce in the way of public service rendered. There are certain small services performed, such as supplying varied information to persons living afar who desire knowledge concerning Santa Ana at the present time—that have concerned it in the past, or may concern it in the future.

The citizens of Santa Ana are using the chamber of commerce more and more as a clearing house in almost every phase of community life. The organization is a clearing house for the commercial, the industrial, and the civic activities of the city and county.

The chamber of commerce is the heart of the community to a larger extent than any other organization in it. It comprises a wider variety of interests than any other. Its business is to correlate them all to the end that all may work harmoniously, diligently and efficiently for the advancement of the public welfare. It is a repository of facts concerning the community from which anyone may draw, at any time, anything concerning any phase of the community life.

Space does not permit listing all the efforts devoted by the secretary to the many promotional industrial projects which have failed to materialize. There is a list of more than 50 that have applied, which, upon investigation, have proved to be unsound, stock-selling propositions. This service profited no one, but it had to be rendered. This wide range of service is represented in the "overhead" expense of the organization. No city in these modern days can dispense with the instrument which renders this sort of service. Following are a few items that may be of special interest:

Publicity Work.
Owing to financial handicaps, we were unable to mail out as many booklets as in the past, though the demand has been greater than in previous years. Every inquiry received is answered. We do not always mail booklets and other literature concerning our city and county, but in every letter is enclosed a leaflet calling attention to the fact that "There is no opportunity for employment in Santa Ana at the present time, due to the fact that we are endeavoring to take care of our own people who need work, and that we are not encouraging anyone to come here who is seeking a job."

The chamber of commerce is called upon daily to furnish maps of Santa Ana, and Orange county which we have for general distribution. We have given out several thousand of these maps during the past year.

Buy in Santa Ana
The chamber of commerce has continued its activity in promoting "Buy from Santa Ana Merchants." This is a very important activity in that it keeps the dollar at home, thus enriching our community, while on the other hand, the dollar spent away from home goes to enrich another city and is lost to us forever.

Industrial
Much time and effort has been devoted by the office staff in promoting the sale of the products of local industries. Many letters have been sent to our retail dealers and consumers asking them to purchase Santa Ana and Orange county products. Also, in connection with the foregoing, every effort has been made to dispose, to some active, going industry, the Gum Vending plant, Ulmer Machinery plant the Kaufmann Spotlight plant and the Woolen Mills property.

In addition to the foregoing, several efforts have been made to open up the Standard American Glass company's plant. Roy Dixon, president of this latter named concern is more than anxious to begin active operations of their plant and will do so as soon as business conditions will warrant. At the present moment there is pending a proposition by an eastern concern to take over the Standard American Glass company plant and operate same.

Said organization is headed by George M. Hanson.

Effort is now being made to secure a shoe manufacturing plant for Santa Ana. A committee of 15 men headed by Mr. Fred Newcomb is now actively engaged in working on this proposition.

Unemployment
A great deal of time and energy has been put forth in registering between 800 and 900 names of men who are seeking employment on the Metropolitan Water Aqueduct. This registration will be closed in the near future and Santa Ana's quota of men will be employed. A number of individuals other than those who have registered for employment on the aqueduct have come to the office seeking employment; these have been referred to the Citizens' Unemployment bureau.

Committee Work
The agricultural committee, under the splendid leadership of A. A. Brock, has done some very valuable work for our district, in helping local citrus and vegetable growers.

The Legislative committee headed by Director Fred Forgy, has had and solved some knotty problems relative to state and national legislation in which citizens of Santa Ana were vitally interested and benefited.

The Fire Prevention committee, under the wise direction of John A. Henderson conducted its usual educational campaign in the schools of Santa Ana during National Fire Prevention week. Much constructive work was done by this department of the chamber. The Fire committee won its usual recognition in the National Contest.

The Health committee, under the direction of Dr. H. K. Sutherland won national recognition in the contest conducted by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

The Finance and Budget committee made its recommendations for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1933, which was unanimously adopted by the directors of the chamber, and while there has been a small loss in membership, yet it is believed that the chamber's activities will come within the budget during the present fiscal year.

Perhaps the most active of all of the chamber's departments is the Industrial, which is under the wise direction of W. C. Jerome. This group has devoted much time and energy to this phase of the city growth. To them come the concerns having nebulous existence, that are without funds, but often have "valuable patents" to contribute as their share of the proposed project—Santa Ana people to be asked to furnish the money in order to make going concerns of them. The committee deems this method of acquiring new industries to be impractical.

The experiences of the Industrial committee have quite clearly demonstrated that the best plan to pursue in securing new industries is to solicit proven concerns having capital and a record of success back of them. For such concerns, the secretary makes special surveys covering markets; raw material; transportation; plant cost; etc.

Special and other standing committees did valiant service for the community and could we enumerate all their work in detail, we could not only show you how the chamber of commerce has been of service to every man and woman in Santa Ana, but also has rendered a very definite service to all sections of Orange county.

Perhaps one of the outstanding committee achievements was a stabilization banquet held during the early part of 1932, at which time there was an abnormal financial unrest in the community. The meeting referred to greatly helped to allay the fears of the people and perhaps averted a run on our local banks.

Through the various departments of the chamber of commerce activities, help was extended to the Orange County Farm Bureau; Community Players; Cantando club; Disabled War Veterans; Community Chest; Civic Music week; and others.

Annual Home Products Banquet.
The Annual Home Products Banquet for the year 1932 was dispensed with by the directors because they felt that the money should be distributed to the Unemployment fund.

In addition to the other activities, the chamber of commerce has been active and has spent much time and effort in promoting the interests of local property owners in accepting and investigating applications for loans from the Federal Home Loan Bank.

REPORT SHOWS INCREASES IN CALAVO SALES

Standardization of the California calavo-avocado industry is taking place rapidly around the several calavo-type varieties, with the Puente by far the most popular of that new quality type. George B. Hodgkin, general manager of the Calavo Growers' association, announced in the ninth annual Exchange report, released today. This variety's predominance was 45 per cent of the 1931 calavo-avocado production, 57 per cent in the 1932 season, and is estimated to reach 55 per cent in the new season now under way.

From 55 per cent of the grower exchange's calavo-avocado crop classified as calavos through variety and quality standards in 1931, the 1932 season rose to 63.6 per cent, indicating the standardization around the calavo type. The Calavo growers' exchange packed 3,643,855 pounds of fruit in the past season, 14 per cent more than the preceding year. The tonnage re-talled at approximately $1,400,000. Eastern markets consumed approximately 50 carloads, an increase of approximately 25 per cent over the largest previous season.

Cooperation of local growers in systematically advertising and effectively marketing their calavo-avocado crops through the Calavo Growers' association, is at a high point today, with the net grower participation now near the 2000 mark, with 7500 acres of calavo groves located between Santa Barbara and San Diego, Hodgkin adds. Some 530 new growers with 1715 acres became affiliated in the 1932 period.

Eastern markets returned the highest net calavo sales, despite low priced Cuban and Florida alligator-avocado pear competition, and despite the greatly lowered public buying power, the report shows. These eastern returns greatly raised the average of Pacific coast sales for the grower's pool payments and were directly traceable to favorable transportation charges of full carlots. Operating efficiencies also materially assisted in making possible the comparatively substantial 1932 returns to growers, chief economies being 30 per cent reduced packing-house labor costs, 20 per cent slash in packing material costs and substantial salary reductions.

Terms, or sea swallows, are said to have a greater developed "homing sense" than pigeons.

Maybe It Was Final Rush Of Leap Year

Maybe it was leap year and maybe it was not leap year that was responsible, but there was a terrific increase in applications for marriage licenses Saturday, at the marriage license bureau.

Shortly before noon 30 intentions to wed had been filed in the bureau with every indication that they will be redeemed Wednesday.

Attaches of the license bureau were of the opinion that the 30 intentions to wed filed this morning was the last dash of women who "got their men" before the death of leap year at midnight to-night.

BOAT ON SAND AT HUNTINGTON BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 3.—The Florence June, a 35-foot motor boat with cabin and four berths, owned by David C. Lockhart of 162 South One Hundred and Thirteenth street, Los Angeles, is beached in the sand two miles east of Huntington Beach with the waves beating her to pieces.

The boat, with eight passengers aboard, ran aground in the fog about 5 o'clock Sunday night.

The eight persons aboard waited ashore when the boat crashed on the sand in shallow water. When the tide went down the Florence June was out of water. When the tide came in the waves broke over the ship and filled her with water.

Dan Williams, skipper of the boat, walked up the beach to the Seabreeze auto camp at Huntington Beach and Bill Ebert, proprietor of the camp summoned aid. They gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. David C. Lockhart, Dan Hall, movie actor; his brother, George Hall, and his mother, Mrs. Constance Hall, all of 1002 North Wilcox street, Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Quick, 4619 Matthew street, Redondo Beach, and the skipper, Dan Williams, whose home is on the boat.

TROY CINCHES NATIONAL FOOTBALL CROWN

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

JOHNSON WINS SEATTLE SUIT

Greatly improved in health and spirit, feeling better in fact than he has for several years, Ernie Johnson is back home from Chicago where he won a $5000 suit against the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast league.

As far as I know, this hasn't been in print before.

Johnson, former manager of the Seattle club, resigned in mid-season last year after a disagreement with Owner "Broke Bill" Klepper. Shortly afterward it was revealed that Johnson had donated about $5000 of his own money to help Klepper's club alive through the dreary spring months of '32.

Johnson appealed his case to Commissioner K. M. Landis, made a special trip to Chicago on the mission. Landis ruled that the Seattle club would have to reimburse Johnson, who should be able to keep the wolf pack away from his Laguna Beach cottage this winter.

Despite Ernie's troubles with the Seattle owner, his son, Don, will report to the Indians this spring with a fine chance of playing regularly at shortstop in '33, especially if a contemplated deal for the veteran "Chick" Ellisworth is consummated.

Young Johnson, who spent a year at Oregon State after leaving Santa Ana Jaycee, participated in about fifty games with Seattle after joining the team in mid-season. Playing third base, he disclosed a rifle-arm, considerable speed, some ability as a hitman.

CARD ALUMNI BACK SMITH

Being a common impression that the majority of Southern section alumni prefer Ernie Nevers for the Stanford coaching post recently resigned by "Pop" Warner, the Orange County Stanford club is now officially on record as favoring the appointment of "Clippy" Smith of Santa Clara.

George Baker, former Stanford center, is president of the local chapter. Doug Patterson as secretary dispatched the action of the club to the board of athletic control, which will name Warner's successor within the next ten days.

As a matter of fact, Stanford alumni here were solidly behind "Tex" Oliver but decided to push Smith's candidacy on the theory that Smith's reputation in the North section was greater and that if appointed he might favor the selection of Oliver as Stanford's freshman coach.

Smith, one of the greatest guards in Notre Dame's history, is known to regard highly Oliver's ability. In the latter connection, it is interesting to note what Clint Evans, freshman mentor at California, had to say about "Toy" Blower and Lawrence Lutz, Santa Ana's who starred on the undefeated Bear Varsity squad this season. Said Evans:

"Blower and Lutz knew more football when they reported than any other members of the squad. Their coach knew what he was doing."

REAL CHAMP ON DELHI CARD

He's a genuine champion, this Johnny Hines they're featuring on the Delhi boxing program tonight.

"KID" GLEASON OF BASEBALL FAME HEART ATTACK VICTIM

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—(UP)—MacK hired him as coach of the Philadelphia Athletics, one of the most famous and colorful figures in baseball's old guard, died at his home here last night of heart disease.

Gleason had been in ill health for several months as he rounded out his seventh year as coach of the Philadelphia Athletics and his forty-sixth year on the diamond.

He entered baseball as a pitcher back in '17 when players wore side-whiskers, won great fame on the mound and later became a second baseman. He reached the peak of his career in 1919 when he piloted the Chicago White Sox to the American league pennant.

Gleason started his career with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1888 as a pitcher. He continued until 1891. Three years later he was with the Baltimore Orioles in the days when the Orioles were one of baseball's finest teams. From 1895 to 1900 he played second base for the New York Giants, then went to Detroit for two years in the same position. From 1903 to 1907 he was with the Phillies again when a blow from a pitched ball ended his active playing career.

He then came to the White Sox as coach and with the exception of two years was with the team until 1923.

CANADIANS WIN RUGBY PLAY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.—(UP)—The Vancouver, B. C., all-star rugby team smothered a team of Southern California players under another avalanche of scores yesterday when the Canadians defeated the locals, 18 to 0.

Hines, U. S. Champion, On Delhi Card

OLYMPIC HERO FIGHTS DISK IN STAR EVENT

Johnny Hines, champion of America's amateur featherweights and semi-finalist at the 1932 Olympic Games, boxed at Delhi tonight. Against Joe Dick, a promising young fighter himself, Hines will be making what is generally understood to be his last start as an amateur.

His eye on the golden trail pursued by Fidel La Barba and Jackie Fields after those Los Angeles boys had represented the United States in the Olympics, Hines plans to turn pro late this month. He will show first at Hollywood.

Hines, a Redondo Beach boy still in his teens, won the Final American Olympic tryouts in the 126-pound division against all-comers, and was selected to wear the Stars and Stripes in the Olympics last August. Hines won his first two matches at the Games before being eliminated by the Frenchman who eventually won the championship.

Hines Undefeated Here

The titleholder has fought at Delhi twice, both times before he was catapulted to fame as the U. S. hope against the universe. Last January he knocked out Baby Sal Solis in 30 seconds. In June, just before the American tryouts, he defeated Ray Campo, a member of the Mexican Olympic team.

Hines has been established a favorite over the swarthy Dick who is best remembered here for his two recent thrilling engagements with Nat Mills, of which he won one and lost one.

Anxious to start 1933 off with a near capacity house, Promoter Sam Sampson and Matchmaker Kid Mexico announce they will show Hines at the usual levy, 25 and 40 cents, which they claim is the cheapest boxing tariff on the coast.

Tonight's card has unusual strength in the semi-windup and special event numbers. Homer Foster, Los Angeles colored lightweight, and Brasse Mitchell, of San Pedro collide in the semi. This is a rematch, Foster having shaded the southpaw in a main event here three weeks ago. Otto Blackwell and Bill Wana mix in the special. Blackwell stopped Reggie Kerr at Delhi last Tuesday. Wana, Westminister welterweight, knocked out Eddie Pruitt his last time out.

Sailor Prehl On Card

Other matches:

Sailor Larry Pahl, San Pedro, vs. Sal Solis, Delhi, 126 pounds; Henry Gomez, Garden Grove, vs. Carlo Carlson, San Pedro, 120 pounds; Dixie Bosch, Los Angeles, vs. Henry Banuella, Garden Grove, 118 pounds; Pete Gonzales, Westminster, vs. Vic Orosco, Santa Ana, 135 pounds; Bill Manzo, Santa Ana, vs. Jack Vanzuela, Delhi, 125 pounds; Wally Robles, El Modena, vs. George Dennis, Santa Ana, 148 pounds; Ed Rocco, El Modena, vs. Chris Rojas, Santa Ana, 118 pounds.

THE STRENUOUS LIFE

Did you know that Coach "Tex" Oliver lost 12 pounds during Santa Ana Hi's last football campaign, and—

That Walter Davis, the man Oliver is to succeed as Arizona's track coach, will be director of physical education at Sing Sing?

WHEN TROY ALMOST LOST JIM

The story is four years old now but still worth recounting—how Southern California nearly lost one of its greatest fullbacks, Jim Musick.

It happened at the end of Musick's freshman football campaign. Musick had been pledged to a certain fraternity, and he was instructed to attire himself in full dress for the occasion of a dinner date.

The idea didn't appeal to big Jim at all. Even in those days Musick was a hardy lad, and he left the inference that he wasn't going to start his college career in a monkey-suit.

The head of the house decided to "break" in right this unruly freshman. Musick was told he would have to wear a dinner suit—or else. Musick said he wouldn't—and quit college. He was home several days before his brothers relented, forgave everything. Mr. Musick did not wear the monkey-suit.

SPORTS BULLETINS

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(INS)—The Poughkeepsie regatta, blue ribbon event of college rowing, will be held this year even though some of the usual entries may not participate. That was made plain today by Maxwell Stevenson, chairman of the stewards of the intercollegiate rowing association.

Plans for the regatta will be discussed at a meeting of the board of stewards Jan. 12. California, defending champion, Navy and Columbia are expected to be on deck as usual. Wisconsin, and perhaps Washington, will be absent, while curtailment of rowing activities has been indicated at Syracuse, Penn and Cornell.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(INS)—Jack Sharkey, accompanied by his wife, sailed for a vacation in Bermuda today. The heavyweight champion arrived here from Boston with his protégé, Ernie Schaff, in tow. Schaff is booked to fight Stanley Porela of Jersey City here Friday night, the winner to meet Primo Cannara and the ultimate survivor to get a crack at Sharkey's title.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(INS)—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, famous woman athlete of Dallas, Tex., who recently turned professional, is expected to arrive here tomorrow from White Sulphur Springs, where she has been hibernating. She will make her first professional appearance at the annual automobile show here, starting Saturday.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(INS)—William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, today emphatically denied a report that Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, would replace James J. Johnston as boxing director at the Garden. Dempsey is now a promoter in opposition to the Garden.

BOWLING

Bowling matches scheduled here this week:

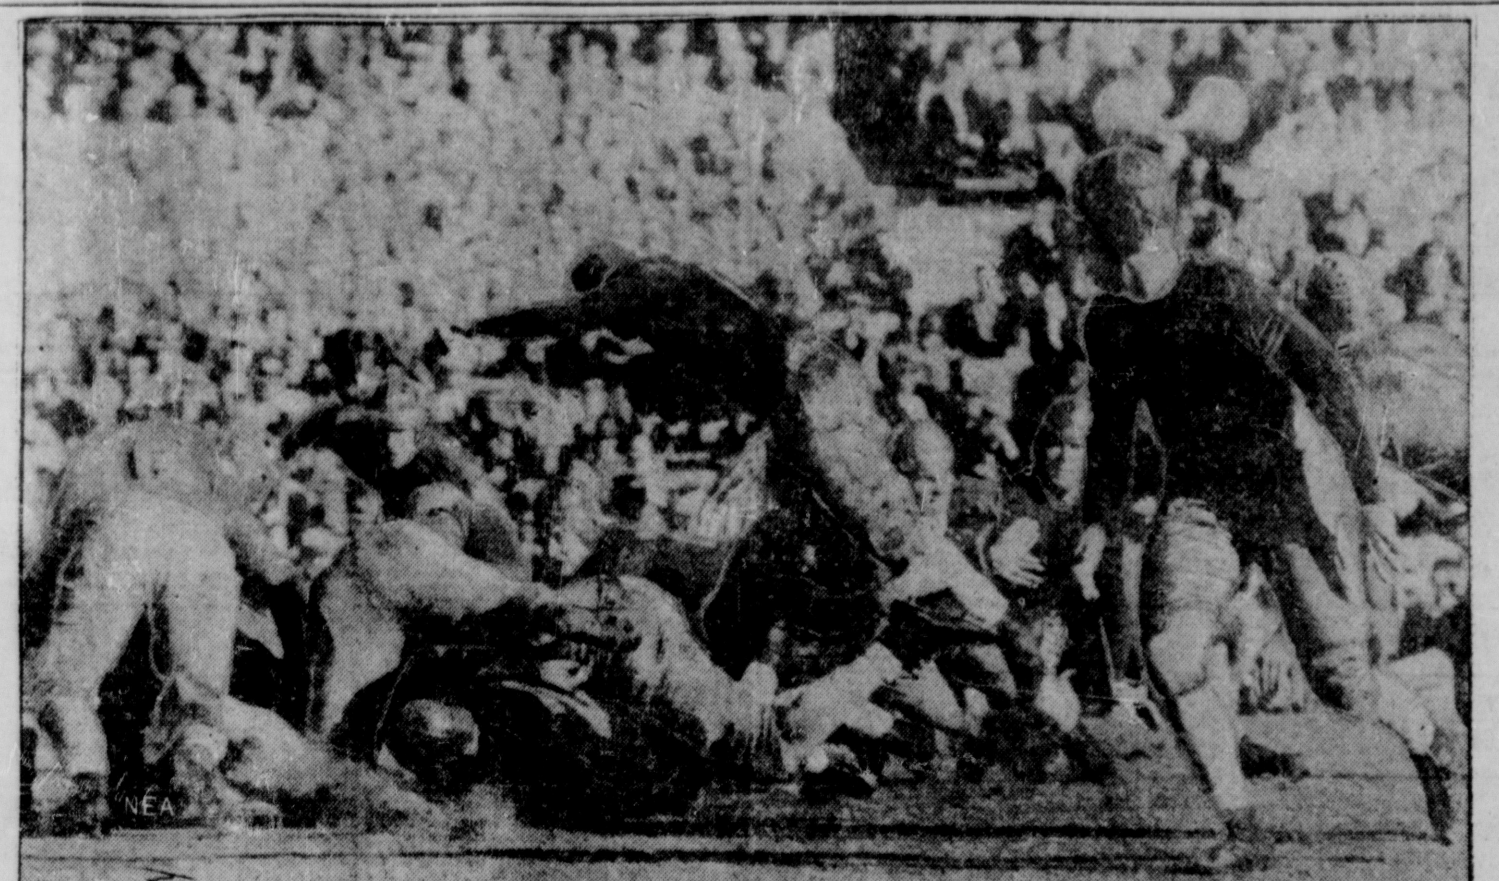

Tuesday—The Coffee Cup vs. Schilling's Shoes.

Wednesday—Valentine's Garage vs. Knights of Columbus.

Thursday—A's Auto Service vs. Arden Milk; MacMillan Gas vs. Seven-up.

TROY'S HOMER HELPING TO BREAK DOWN PITT RESISTANCE

Uncocking a brilliant passing attack, University of Southern California defeated the University of Pittsburgh, 35 to 0, in Pasadena's famous Rose Bowl New Year's day. NEA photo shows Homer Griffith, star Trojan quarterback, diving over the Panther line for a three-yard gain in the first quarter. Sparling, Trojan end, and Skladany, No. 18, Pittsburgh end, were the only players left on their feet as Griffith pulled his diving act.

GOLFER MAKES AGE AS YEAR VACATION END

After making a hole-in-one on the last day of the old year, which changed to be the last day of his vacation here, R. H. Rutledge was today on his way home at Ogden, U. S., satisfied that 1932 wasn't so bad after all.

A regional forester in the United States service, Rutledge has been visiting his son, D. H. Rutledge of Santa Ana. Playing with his son and George Brauntz, Los Gatos, Cal., Forester Rutledge aged the 132-year No. 11 hole at Willowick Golf club. He used a mashie iron.

This was Willowick's eleventh hole-in-one, others having been made by Lester Wilken, Roy Campbell, E. H. Guthrie, R. E. Gray, Joe Jones, and others.

A 90-day selective golf tournament for Willowick women players had been completed today with Mrs. Bob Weston the champion and winner of a suitable trophy. Mrs. Weston's 61 was good for first place.

The Willowick women's team played at Huntington Beach today. An association meeting was to follow the golf. Wednesday will be devoted to the usual group lesson at Willowick, Pro Harold Hiser in charge.

Willowick's 10-man men's squad plays at the Long Beach nine-hole municipal course next Sunday.

Postponed Games To Decide County League Ball Race

ORANGE CO. WINTER LEAGUE

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Huntington Beach	7	1	0	.875
Hancock Oil	5	2	1	.714
Santa Anita	6	2	0	.750
Laguna Beach	4	4	1	.571
Newport Harbor	1	7	0	.125
Irvine	0	8	0	.000

Three teams are still first place mathematical possibilities in the Orange County Winter league's first half although the schedule technically closed yesterday with Huntington Beach and a full game ahead of Santa Anita and two ahead of Hancock Oil.

Huntington Beach, however, has postponed games to play off with Hancock Oil and Newport Harbor, which may affect the final standings. Hancock Oil must still meet Huntington Beach, and Santa Anita will yet face Laguna Beach and Huntington Beach.

Laguna Beach crippled Hancock Oil's chances yesterday by defeating the Santa Anas, 5 to 3. Eight errors handicapped the Oil pitchers, Mallett and Miller. Santa Anita shaded Newport Harbor, 5-4, and Irvine forfeited to Huntington Beach.

Next week's games: Newport Harbor at Hancock Oil; Laguna Beach at Huntington Beach; Irvine at Santa Anita.

Startling Lineup Problematical

Ernie Acker and Weston Sprague, forwards; Fred Wiemer, center; Bob Schwarm and Al Thielen, guards, compose one of Santa Ana's best all-around combinations and may receive the call, although the Saint mentor may decide just before the game to insert his football group of Allen Kidder and Francis Conrad, forwards; Walt Hendrie, center; Clair Preininger and Bob Wimbush, guards. Harold Youel may replace Conrad, who has been handicapped by a back injury.

Other Saints in line for action are Harold Cook, Lee Hamilton, Glen Bishop and "Bud" Boyle, guards; Laurence Roberts and Frank Clark, centers; Al Markel and Glen Colbeck, forwards.

Conference standings:

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
San Diego	2	0	0	1.000
Alhambra	2	0	0	1.000
Pasadena	1	1	0	.500
Long Beach	1	1	0	.500
Santa Ana	2	2	0	.500
Glendale	0	2	0	.000

Tonight's Games

Santa Anita at Glendale; Long Beach at Alhambra; San Diego and Pasadena, bye.

Confident that 1933 will bring them several victories, Clyde Patton's Santa Ana Hi middleweights meet Glendale's "Bees" in a preliminary court argument at 7 o'clock.

Long Beach defeated Santa Ana by 15 points and previously defeated Glendale by 7, with 28-15 and 28-21 scores, respectively. The Saints have improved greatly since this defeat in early December, however, and should give the Dynamiters a warm battle.

Jesse Ojeda, LeRoy Levens, Leonard Lookhart, Orville Clem, Vic Mossberg, Tom Lacy and Richard Clem are the leading Santa Ana characters in tonight's contest.

IMPROVED S. A. GAGERS INVADE GLENDALE GYM

Resuming league play after three weeks of non-conference opposition, Coach Bill Cook's Saints of Santa Ana Hi travel to Glendale's gymnasium tonight for their fourth Coast Preparatory league basketball skirmish at 8 o'clock.

Long Beach's Jackrabbits, defeated by Santa Ana for the first time in history December 13, play Alhambra, 24-23 winner over Pasadena, San Diego and Pasadena draw byes, meet in a doubleheader at Pasadena January 20-21.

For the past two seasons Santa Ana, considered an easy mark for other court teams, has taken delight in embarrassing highly-touted Glendale, and has been installed a slight favorite tonight.

S. A. Glendale Nemesis

In 1931, when Glendale was on its way to the top and Santa Ana to the cellar, Bob Mitchell, then a sophomore forward, sank a field goal in the closing seconds of play to give Santa Ana a 36-35 victory over the Dynamiters. Then—

With the score deadlocked in the third quarter at Glendale last year, the Saints went wild to register a 52-34 victory. Six members of Santa Ana's present roster—Kidder, Conrad, Hendrie, Preininger, Wimbush and Clark—shared in that second victory.

Forgetting two early defeats from San Diego, unquestionably the class of the league this season, Santa Ana hopes to gain from its seven remaining assignments a first division spot in the 1933 standings. Santa Ana's 28-25 victory over Long Beach, early winner over Glendale, furnishes some evidence that the Saints are primed for their most successful court season.

Two combinations, virtually equal in strength, will represent Santa Ana at Glendale.

West Trims East, 21-13 In Bay Game

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3.—The West's unscoring gridiron heroes won the Shrine's eighth annual East-West classic, 21 to 13, before 45,000 spectators here yesterday.

Hank Schaldach, California quarterback, whose name failed to appear on any of the All-American eleven, literally stole the show from the galaxy of All-Americans in the East's lineup. He scored the West's three touchdowns, added the extra point after each, and was the leading ground gainer.

The East scored first when Bart Viviano of Cornell went across in the first period after a 52-yard downfield drive led by Harry Newman, Michigan's All-American quarterback, and "Pug" Rentner of Northwestern. Newman's kick for goal was wide.

The half ended with the team of Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley of Northwestern leading, 6 to 0.

The third period saw Schaldach suddenly become inspired. He punted to the two yard line where Steve Hokuf, Nebraska end, downed it. Paul Moss, Purdue's All-American end, punted out. Schaldach took the kick back 35 yards to the six-yard line. "Buck" Koy, Texas back, made five yards in three tries, then Schaldach drove through to score.

A moment later, Stafford of Texas, intercepted Newman's pass on the East's 39-yard line. Koy added 21 yards and then little Schaldach skimmed through the entire field for his second touchdown.

The East scored again in the fourth quarter when Gl. Berry, Illinois back, returned a punt 17 yards to the West's 28 yard line. Rencher picked up seven yards around end and then Berry passed to Fench, Northwestern end, for the score. Jack Manders, Minnesota fullback, booted the extra point to leave the West in the lead, 14 to 13.

Schaldach once more came to life, took Berry's punt for a 35-yard return to the 7 yard line, and then scored, standing up, on a run around end.

Kansas Wins From Cards Again, 34-28

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 3.—(UP)—Stanford university's quintet suffered its third defeat at the hands of Kansas last night when the Jayhawks spurred during the last few minutes of play to increase their lead and win by a score of 34 to 28.

The game was the closest of the Kansas-Stanford series. In the opening contest Friday night Kansas won, 38 to 20, and came back the next night to defeat the Cards, 28 to 17.

S. A. BAGS 11-1 DECISION OVER STUDIO OUTFIT

Breaking into the win column for the first time since the Southern California Winter League opened two months ago, Santa Ana yesterday pulled Paramount Studios down into joint tenancy of last place, routing the Los Angeles club at Alhambra park here, 11-1.

"Lefty" Delhi was on the ridge for Carl Ruecker's home guard and just breezed in after the Santa Anas assembled eight runs in the sixth inning on six singles and three walks. Delhi allowed ten hits but was stingy in the pinches and got some valuable assistance from his infield which generated three double plays.

Delhi hurled no-run ball after the first inning when two doubles and a single accounted for the Paramount club's only tally.

Santa Ana will meet the Firestone Tire and Rubber company at Los Angeles next Sunday. A league meeting will be held tonight to discuss postponements and protests.

HOW SHARP?

● Gillette has developed a secret device that definitely measures the sharpness of a shaving edge. This ingenious photo-electric tester positively proves that the "BLUE BLADE" is the sharpest we have ever produced.

No package contains genuine "BLUE BLADES" unless it carries the portrait of King C. Gillette.

PITTSBURGH IS VICTIM OF 35-0 PASADENA ROUT

By GEORGE H. BEALE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
PASADENA, Jan. 3.—(UP)—The great football juggernaut of the University of Southern California today claimed its second consecutive National championship, boasted an unbroken string of 20 victories and pointed to a record of having won four Tournaments of Roses games in as many starts.

These honors were predicated on the 35 to 0 walloping the Trojans dealt in the annual Rose Bowl game to the previously unbeaten University of Pittsburgh team, rated one of the strongest in the country.

The game was the most decisive in tournament history, exceeding even Southern California's 47 to 14 victory over Pitt in the 1930 contest.

Pitt really seemed not so much outclassed as the score indicated. But Southern California played inspired football, scoring on sheer power when that was necessary and meantime taking advantage of every fumble the Panthers made.

Trojans Versatile, Vigilant

Two of the five touchdowns resulted from long drives. Three were turned in when the alert Westerners took advantage of Pitt mistakes.

Pitt reached scoring territory only twice.

Ernie Smith, Southern California tackle, and Warren Heller, Panther halfback, both of whom were selected on most All-American teams, were the standouts.

It was through holes opened by Smith that Trojan backs cantered to their greatest gains on running plays while Pitt made no yardage over his position, meantime he place-kicked for the point after touchdown four times in as many tries.

Heller left the field late in the final quarter, a bruised but unbeaten All-American, carrying with him a stirring ovation from 84,000 spectators in tribute to his great defensive work and his fine ball-carrying.

P. O. RECEIPTS DURING YEAR TOTAL $152,056

Postal receipts taken in at the Santa Ana postoffice during the past year amounted to $152,056.52, according to figures announced today by Assistant Postmaster Flake Smith who has been in charge of the office since the illness of Postmaster Terry E. Stephenson.

During December, 1932, the postal receipts totaled $20,614 as compared with $22,690 in December, 1931, the figures revealed. Receipts during 1931 amounted to $158,000.60, $5894 more than was taken in during the past year. Postal authorities pointed out, however, that the postoffice lost $6000 during the year through public utilities and private business houses delivering their own statements instead of sending them through the mail. The companies have done this to keep men employed.

On January 4 the postoffice will have been established in the new pretentious Federal building for one year. The building, one of the most attractive Federal buildings in the state, has attracted considerable interest during the past year.

One year ago Postmaster Stephenson saw his fondest dreams come true with the completion of the new postoffice. Today he is at home convalescing from an operation.

The grounds of the building have been beautified during the past year with grass, trees and shrubs. No flowers will be seen on the grounds during the coming year, because the growing of flowers about a Federal building is banned. No potted plants are permitted inside the building, according to postal regulations.

MAY RESTORE COURT RETIREMENT CHECKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(UP)—Restoration of full retirement pay for United States supreme court justices is under consideration by the senate economy committee, the United Press learned today, coincident with reports that two members may soon leave the bench.

Former Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes would benefit immediately by the proposed change. Senators discovered to their chagrin after invoking economy last session that they had reduced Mr. Holmes' retirement pay from $20,000 to $10,000 a year. The former justice made no complaint.

Attempt To Save $4000 Power Boat

SAN CLEMENTE, Jan. 3.—Mrs. Emma Servus, owner of the $4000 power launch "Emma S." which went ashore after breaking from its moorings at the pier over a week ago, is attempting to save the craft. The sides turned the boat on its side, filling the hull with sand and causing considerable damage. By persistent work the boat has been righted and is now in a position to be moved. The boat has served its owner in two ways. It was used to supply the Aquarium cafe, which she owns, with fish and lobsters, and the engine was used to pump ocean water into the cafe aquariums.

LIMITED MARKET IS FACED BY GROWERS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 3.—(UP)—California vegetable growers, like other agriculturists, produced bumper crops during 1932, but were faced with a limited market according to the annual summary of the federal-state crop reporting service.

In 1932 vegetable growers increased their plantings 30,320 acres for a total of 437,310 acres, therefor said. At the same time the total value of all vegetable crops declined from $12,347,000 in 1931 to $8,714,000 in 1932.

"California vegetable crops started the year under very favorable soil moisture conditions and the fall months were comparatively free from frosts enabling growers to harvest over a longer period than usual," the summary said.

Picturesque Ceremony To Mark Highway Opening

McADOO TO BE PRESENT AT EVENT JAN. 21

United States Senator-Elect W. G. McAdoo and many state and county officials will assist in the ceremonies and dinner at Laguna Beach January 21, that will mark the official opening of the newly widened and paved Coast highway from Newport Beach to Dana Point, the last link between Oxnard and San Diego to be paved with concrete.

While the construction program will be continued by the state highway commission until there are four lanes of traffic, that from Corona del Mar to Dana Point, until the present contract was completed, was a temporary pavement. Because of its central location, Laguna Beach was chosen by the Orange County Coast Association as the place to hold the highway celebration. All of the communities from Seal Beach to San Clemente, which are included in the membership of the association, will join to make the day a gala one, and representatives will be on hand from as far south as Encinitas and probably San Diego.

The dedication ceremony will be performed by a "Queen of the Highway" who will be chosen in a contest being conducted by Laguna Beach merchants. Plans for the celebration were made public this week by Sumner Crosby, of Laguna Beach, chairman of the special committee of the association, and Harry Welch of Balboa, secretary of the association.

Two Caravans The ceremonies will start when motorcades are formed at Long Beach and San Clemente, early in the afternoon of January 31. They will gather their contingents from towns and cities along the highway. The two lines, converging at Laguna Beach, will be met by official representatives, who formally will invite the visitors to unite in dedicating the highway and celebrating its completion.

Mayor J. E. Bishop of Laguna Beach will welcome the visitors officially. He will be assisted by a reception committee composed of: Hallam Cooley, Theres Arch Bay; T. B. Talbert, Huntington Beach; City Attorney Milburn G. Harvey of Laguna Beach; Frank D. Hevener, Laguna Beach; Lew H. Wallace, Newport Beach; Dr. C. G. Huston, Costa Mesa; Robert L. Hanson and George Ferguson of San Clemente and W. D. Miller of Seal Beach.

The various groups of motorists will be met by the "Queen of the Highway" who will be chosen in a contest being conducted by Laguna Beach merchants. Plans for the celebration were made public this week by Sumner Crosby, of Laguna Beach, chairman of the special committee of the association, and Harry Welch of Balboa, secretary of the association.

ARMS DELEGATES HOME

Much technical detail has been worked out towards international disarmament, Norman H. Davis, United States expert at the Geneva conference, said as he arrived in New York aboard the Manhattan. He is shown here with Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn (right), another member of the American arms delegation, as they landed.

have been requested to start in time to reach Laguna Beach before 3 o'clock. They will be headed by the following district marshals: Seal Beach, Mayor Elmer J. Hughes; Long Beach, Charles Crawford; Sunset Beach, George W. Bush; Huntington Beach, Judge Charles P. Patten; Newport Beach, Police Chief R. R. Hodgkinson; Balboa, George C. Macleod; Emerald Bay, Arthur Dupuis; Laguna Beach, C. E. C. Burnett; South Coast area, (Aliso Vista, Coast Royal, Three Arches and Three Arch Bay), Elmer L. Crawford; Dana Point, John Lyle; San Clemente, A. T. Smith; San Juan Capistrano, Carl Hankey.

Police Chief Abe W. Johnson of Laguna Beach will be director general of traffic and will have charge of all police arrangements for the celebration. Aid will be given by the police of all communities through which the motorcades pass and by the state motor vehicle department, under the direction of Capt. Henry C. Meehan of the Orange county patrol.

Nominated Escort Arriving at Laguna Beach the visitors will be assembled to greet the "queen" of the highway celebration, who will be surrounded by an escort of state and county officials and a troop of the Third Regiment, California Lancers, known as "Orange County's Own." The crowning of the "queen" will take place at the intersection of Coast Boulevard and Broadway, Laguna Beach where a golden ribbon will be stretched across the highway.

The crown will be placed on the head of the "Highway Queen" by P. A. Stanton of Anaheim, a member of the California state highway commission.

Following the crowning, petitions will be presented asking that the "queen" give sanction to the opening of the highway. These petitions will be presented by those "travelers" who in the past have journeyed the length and breadth of California's trails—the aborigine, the Digger Indian, the American, the First Californian, the Padre, the Prospector, in search of gold; the Trapper, who roamed the hills, valleys and open spaces; the Pioneer, searching for land on which to build that "home of homes"; the Stage Coach, with its snappy six-horse team ticking off the miles, and the Automobile, the machine that has demanded such broad and smooth roadways. Each will present his petition in turn. The "queen" will consider the petitions and decide that in view of the urgency of the demand for fast, safe and delightful travel, a road must be opened.

Will Cut Ribbon State Senator Nelson T. Edwards of Orange has been chosen to advise the "queen" on the wisdom of opening such a road, and with her approval will officially dedicate it to the service of man and travel.

The actual ceremony of opening the road then will take place. The "queen" will descend from her throne and walk down to level of the ordinary traveler, where she will sever the ribbon of gold and declare the highway open to all.

Arrangements for the ceremony are in charge of Wayne Moore, director of the Little Art theater, Laguna Beach, and Capt. George A. Portus of Coast Royal. The coronation and opening ceremonies will start promptly at 3 p.m. At 4 p.m. there will be a reception at the Laguna Beach Art gallery and at 5 o'clock the "queen" and her court will hold a reception at the Hotel Laguna. The reception committee will be in the receiving line.

Theatre Party Follows Luncheon Honoring Birthday

Making the birthday anniversary of their daughter, Miss Geraldine Gilbert, the occasion for a merry holiday party, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Gilbert entertained a group of their daughter's close friends yesterday in their home, 420 South Main street.

Such seasonal decorations as a lovely Christmas tree, much greenery, etc., remained in the home, providing an attractive background for colorful appointments used at the table where luncheon was served early in the afternoon. Enhancing the brightness of vividly-petaled poinsettias arranged in a low bowl as the centerpiece, were four red tapers softly glowing.

In serving, Mrs. Gilbert had the assistance of another daughter, Miss Eugenia Gilbert, who returned last night to her studies at Pomona college after having spent the holidays here. She is taking her senior work this year. Guests of the birthday celebration attended a matinee following the luncheon. In the group were the Misses Betty Bradley, Ann Wetherell, Mildred McCullish, Marian Brannon, Anna Wakeham, Jean Tandell, Vera Flora and Geraldine Gilbert.

Anniversary Ball Leads In Month's Events At Country Club

As the new year dawns at Santa Ana Country club, it promises as its most important social feature, the eighth annual anniversary ball, always conceded to be one of the winter's outstanding events, celebrating as it does, the gala opening of the new clubhouse in 1925.

For the forthcoming celebration the directors, headed by the president, W. D. Young of Huntington Beach, have conspired with the club management, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. McGilvray, to depart from the usual plan of a formal dinner with dancing, and instead will celebrate with a buffet supper to be served at midnight after dancing beginning at 9 o'clock. This gala event is scheduled for Saturday night, January 25.

In the meantime there will be other general club festivities, all imbued with the spirit which animates the arrival of a new year. The first of these will come this week when members and their guests assemble Friday night for bridge with Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Irwin F. Landis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyer and Mr. and Mrs. J. K. McDonald as hosts.

For this immediate hospitality, plans have been made to accommodate both contract and auction players, so that members, regardless of their preference in bridge forms, may be assured of tables and fellow players.

Friday afternoon, January 20, has been designated as the date for the afternoon bridge party with Mrs. J. L. Clark, Mrs. Frank C. Drumm and Mrs. E. B. Van Meter as hostesses. Playing will begin promptly at 2 o'clock, and those who wish to lunch at the clubhouse will find tables placed in the solarium for their convenience. Serving will be accomplished from 12 o'clock to 1:45 p. m., allowing ample time for bridge groups to be formed afterwards. Reservations for the luncheon must be made in advance just the same as the bridge table reservations, in order that hostesses and clubhouse management may know definitely for how many to prepare.

For the month's anniversary ball, guests will be greeted by the president, W. D. Young, and Mrs. Young, assisted by a receiving line in which all the past presidents and their wives will take part. Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock to music by the Louise Shirey orchestra, easily the most popular musical group ever presented at the clubhouse. Reservations for the function are asked well in advance of the date, January 28.

Young People Enjoy Watch Party in Tustin

Miss Marjorie Hutton entertained a group of friends with an informal party on New Year's Eve, giving the affair in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hutton, Prospect avenue, Tustin. Games and dancing were enjoyed until a late hour, when appetizing refreshments were served. Guests included the Misses Llewellyn Allen, Eloise Walker, Winifred Bushard, Dorothy Grislet, Helen Marshall and Messrs. Wesley Ulrich, Robert Holmes, Donald Watson, Walter De Brouwer, Donald Hofer and Robert Spray, together with the hostess, Miss Hutton.

New Year Hailed at Close of Dinner And Bridge

Sixteen Santa Anans interrupted a prolonged session of bridge play to welcome the New Year Saturday evening, when members of a dinner bridge club gathered as guests in the Charles A. Adams residence at 1317 Cypress street, to follow their customary procedure of entertainment.

The early hours of the party were given over to the New Year's Eve dinner prepared for the club, the hosts indicating bridge tables, following the dinner, where the evening's fun was continued in the form of a card contest.

Interest was divided at midnight, between New Year felicitations and the presentation of prizes, which latter were claimed by Mrs. Paul Hall and Warren Hillyard, high in their respective fields; and Mrs. Adams and Frank Cook, holding respective lows.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams received Saturday evening Messrs. and Mesdames Arthur W. Ingle, Warren Hillyard, Don Hillyard, Frank Cook, Paul Hall, Miss Mildred Cook and William Smith, all of Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Beard of Pasadena.

Greetings Telephoned From Toronto

One of the pleasantest possible holiday experiences awaited Mrs. Ella S. Webster of 518 South Main street, when she was called to the telephone in her home late last week, and there heard the voices of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Webster, bridging the distance between their home in Toronto, Can., and California with a message of holiday love.

It has been four years since Mrs. Webster and her son have been together, so the telephone conversation was a particularly enjoyable one. The more so because the Santa Anans heard for the first time, the voice of her little granddaughter, Ursula Webster, whom she has not yet seen. Little Ursula is just two and a half years old, and her message of love to her grandmother was the pleasantest part of the whole experience, according to Mrs. Webster.

Ross Webster is manager of the Canadian district of the Oxford Railroad Service company, with headquarters in Toronto.

Fellowship Party Gay Affair of Week End

Among social events prolonging the gaiety of the recent holidays was a party held this week end in the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Museum, 2111 North Ross street, where assembled members of the Young People's Fellowship of the Church of the Messiah for a jolly card affair.

Five tables were filled by the merry-makers, who enjoyed their play in a setting bedecked in a manner appropriate to the season. Ice cream and cocoa, Christmas candies and cakes were served the guests when play had been concluded and prizes awarded. Miss Helena Bailey and George Chapman, the two high scorers, and Betty Goode and Bob Holmes, holders of low scores.

Dr. and Mrs. Museum, assisted by the Fellowship advisor, Mrs. George L. Chapman, played host and hostess to the Messias Marjorie Hatter, Betty Goode, Mary Bartholomew, Helena Bailey, Josephine Keeler, Eleanor Brady, Mildred Goodwin, Lauraine Farrage, Adele Johnston, Frances Johnston, Harriet Crouse, Frances Merchant, Messrs. Bill Brady, Josh Brady, Bob Holmes, George Chapman and Eric Eastman.

room, where refreshments were served by Mrs. Fields Rathbone and her committee.

College Group Shares Evening of Varied Pleasures

Sharing the gaiety of a dinner, theater party and New Year's Eve celebration, a group of college friends enjoyed the hospitality of Miss Kathryn Robbins and Richard Robbins Saturday night in the beautiful home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mac O. Robbins, 2123 North Main street.

Festivities opened with a delicious dinner for which the young people were grouped at small tables resplendent with linen, silver and tall red candles. After the meal was concluded, several of the guests offered an impromptu musical program and all joined in group singing. The first group consisted of selections by a trio composed of Merle Bauer, violin; Richard Robbins, cello, and Miss Margaret Gregg, piano.

Both Mr. Bauer and Mr. Robbins played solos, accompanied by Miss Gregg, and later in the evening, vocal solos were given by Paul Allen and Horace Rittner.

The party then motored to Orange to see the midnight show, a special section having been reserved. Shortly before the coming of the new year, a quick return trip was made to the Robbins home, where whistles, horns, and other noise makers were used freely in welcoming 1933.

Light refreshments of individual cakes, hot chocolate, candies and cookies were served, after which everyone played bridge. High scores brought clever prizes to Miss Martha Humes and Ray Archer. Another period of singing, games, fun and merry-making was enjoyed before the party broke up.

Those attending the affair were the Misses Janet Martin, Veima Bishop, Mary Nalle, Kathryn Belle Bolton, Martha Humes, Mildred Crowl, Margaret Gregg, and Kathryn Robbins; Messrs. Horace Rittner, Ray Archer, Paul Allen, Merle Bauer, John Dunlap, Seldon Martin, Richard Robbins, Charles Fairbanks of Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. Mac O. Robbins, Miss Dorothy Robbins, small daughter of the home, and Gordon Garnett, cousin of the two hosts.

Y. W. C. A. News Notes

The Y. W. C. A. announces a most interesting new course in rhythmic gymnastics beginning with the new year. The classes will again be under the direction of Miss Mando Moore, but will be held at the Y. W. C. A. building, Fifth and Main streets, instead of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium as previously announced. The type of work that is being offered is the very latest thing in relaxing and health building rhythmic. A class will be given at 9 o'clock each Friday morning at the Y. W. C. A. for those particularly wanting individual help and instruction. At 10 o'clock class will offer the group work in Danish rhythms for body balance, and if there is a large enough request there will also be a class offered at 5:30 in the afternoon for business girls.

The Y. W. C. A. will use the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool between the hours of 2 and 5 every Friday afternoon. Two to 3 p. m. the pool will be open for an adult dip hour. From 3 to 3:30 Miss Moore will give swimming lessons for adults; 3:30 to 4 has been scheduled for grade school girls' swimming lessons; 4 to 4:30 will be for a general dip for school girls, and 4:30 to 5 Miss Moore will give swimming instructions to junior high school girls.

Further information with regard to the new Health Education program may be obtained by calling the Y. W. C. A.

Officers for the new semester will be elected by the Senior High School Girl Reserves when they gather tonight for their first meeting after the Christmas holidays. Nominating committee with Miss Helen Griggs, chairman, has been working overtime during the holidays getting nominations in readiness for the meeting and members are particularly anxious that all Senior High School Girl Reserves vote their preferences with regard to officials for the club.

Gathering at 8:30 on New Year's Eve, at the home of Miss Natalie Neff, chairman of the Girl Reserve Ring circle, members of the organization enjoyed an evening combining fun and more serious discussion. Miss Neff led the discussion on "New Beginnings" and was hostess for the party which followed. As the hour neared midnight the group adjourned to the kitchen for a taffy pull.

TWO BIG FILMS NOW SHOWING AT FOX WEST COAST

Two big pictures are seen at the Fox West Coast theater today and tomorrow in a New Year's program which should prove appealing to Santa Ana theater goers. They are Richard Dix in his new film, "Hell's Highway" and "Handle With Care" with James Dunn.

The Dix picture shows the life of a man on a chain gang. His thoughts, desires and his actions towards freedom. There is the girl at home who believes in him and who waits for him, while he, a blustering criminal type rages and tears like an animal at bay. Tom Brown also has a leading part in the production.

"SILVER DOLLAR" AT BROADWAY IS STRIKING FILM

If "Silver Dollar," Edward G. Robinson's new picture, now showing at the Fox Broadway theater, is an example of what pictures are going to be in 1933, the theaters will become probably the most popular places in the country.

The story, based on the inter-tribal man who founded Denver, Colo., his life, his loves and his ambitions, is one of the most powerful film productions that has come here in a long time. It has been called a "four star" picture. It could not be rated less.

Robinson, whose "Little Caesar" and many other films since that time have made him one of the leading actors of the screen gives another great performance. His battle for silver against the gold standard, his weakness in love affairs, his cockiness in being a big man, bring a living character to the screen.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mona Moran who supports her mother, invalid father, little sister, Kitty, and a few other well known friends, is determined to marry for wealth and position. She is a receptionist for a Wall Street law firm and in the office sees men of the world to which she aspires.

Mona's brother announces that her childhood sweetheart, Steve Saccarelli, grandson of the ice and coal dealer, has returned home. Steve disappeared three years earlier and it was rumored he was in prison though Mona never believed this.

She meets him on her way to work one morning. Steve is handsome, well dressed and well mannered. Mona is not anxious to renew the friendship but agrees to dine with Steve. Later in the day she meets Barry Townsend, a young man of wealth and social prominence. She refuses Barry's dinner invitation, telling him she never makes engagements with clients or employers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

His hand lay on the wheel mechanically, the car responding to his slightest touch like a sensitive race horse. He had not been to bed. Three years of loneliness coupled with that sense of security provided by sufficient money honesty come by had added a piquant flavor to New York's night life.

Before Steve had gone away he had seen only the outskirts of that life. Today he could take part and fling foolish gold with the others. And Steve wanted to show Mona this New York to which he had ascended. He had acquired an ease of manner, a sense of dress, an air. It stirred his vanity to be able to show Mona the new Steve, to walk on Broadway the Park Avenue way.

It was true, as he had told Mona, that before he had disappeared he had been involved with gangsters. Innocently enough at first, had driven what the tabloids refer to as the "hold-up car," though as far as Steve knew he had been involved in no gun-play.

It seemed to be easy money. All Steve had to do was pick up his fare as prearranged, drive to a certain, hide-out and collect his split. That the gang held out on him frequently made little difference. When he received his velvet and his risk was slight.

When he came to realize that the gang which hired him was not bound on pleasure parties, that the cash they handed him in furtive though generous amounts was offered usually after newspapers had printed accounts of this robbery or that along the jewel centers of the town Steve tried to pull out. He was approached carefully and warned. Leave town and they'd get him. Or let the cops get him for a stretch at Sing Sing.

"You haven't anything on me, buddies," Steve insisted. "Yeah! Tell that to the judge and see what it gets you!" They spoke glibly of accessory before and after the fact, of receiving stolen goods (this consisted of carrying the swag, unapprised, to the fences) of "raps" taken by innocent members of their organization.

Oh yes, they had plenty on him. So Steve perceived.

It happened that Steve, back in the days before his association with "the gang" had often had as passenger in his cab a young man about town whose wavering footsteps could not always make the distance to his club at one o'clock in the morning.

Cruising about the supper club zone in that dull period just after the theater crowds had been cared for, Steve formed the habit of picking up this passenger and dropping him safely at his club entrance.

This service was the beginning of a friendship. The night after the next jewel robbery had blazoned itself in morning and evening papers, Steve, driving idly past the club, had seen his old friend in an honest and upright condition waggling a finger into the traffic for a taxi. Steve drew to the curb and the young man got into the cab.

He was going to South America that evening, the passenger said. To make conversation Steve announced he would like to go too.

"Come on!" The invitation was spontaneous and heartfelt. "Here's the idea. Wind up any business you may have on hand and call for me at 11. You can ship as my man. The old boy got cold feet yesterday.

The trivial matter of passport could be arranged unblushingly. Baggage, my eye! Money? Here in the old jeans aplenty.

It was thus hastily agreed. Steve "wound up his business" by changing the license plate and ditching the taxi out Canarsie way, then lying low in a downtown movie house until sailing time.

In an open-all-evening shop selling men's wear he bought a hat designed to change his identity completely—a trick foisted on the world by none other than Colonel Lindbergh and worth adopting.

In a hired taxi he called for his benefactor at 11 o'clock. They boarded the Miranda in the North river, the white stars and blinking moon the only interested witnesses. New York slipped away at midnight from the ship's placid stern.

Now after three years Steve was back, a man of affairs. A partner, in fact, in a prosperous business in Brazil. He wanted to show the folks and he wanted to show Mona.

As he drove north Steve reflected that he wanted to take Mona to the swanky supper club he had found last evening.

She was a knockout but maybe she didn't have the things to wear. Not that he would mind—but she would. He had been away from civilization for three years but he knew women. It was no cinch these days for a girl to support herself, let alone her family. That good for nothing brother of Mona's—

It did not occur to him that Mona's code might fail to include the acceptance of gowns sent to her by men friends, however well intended such a gift might be.

Steve closed his eyes and thought—as he had often thought—of Mona in a costume really befitting her beauty. That graceful figure, that hair, that creamy skin, the gray-green eyes, the wistfulness of Mona's smile, strangely at variance with its setting—

Steve laughed aloud as an idea occurred to him. Go to Pilgrim's and make old Pilgrim dress Mona up!

"They don't have anything too good for her, at that," Steve told himself.

Two hours consultation with Henri at Pilgrim's did much to deplete Steve's ideas as well as his bank roll.

He slipped five dollars to the model displaying the gown because her coloring approached Mona's and because she had shown untiring patience. The messenger boy got another five to insure prompt delivery.

On the way up he recalled the proposed visit to the hospital. That necessitated other purchases and when a dressing gown, a steamer basket of fruit and some tobacco had been added he nosed the car at last toward the little Third Avenue flat.

Maybe Mona wouldn't like his buying all these things. That idea suddenly occurred to Steve. He dashed for a telephone and only by a series of threats did he get the magnificent Henri on the wire.

"Say," Steve said wildly, "slip a note in that box, will you? Something to the effect that I'm only lending the stuff. She might not take it otherwise, see? Fix it up, you know how. And sign it 'Steve'."

"Ze box for Mees Moran? She has gone already." Henri waved an apologetic hand unseen over the phone.

"You are a liar," Steve told him

"You are a liar," Steve told him

for LOVE or MONEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mona Moran who supports her mother, invalid father, little sister, Kitty, and a few other well known friends, is determined to marry for wealth and position. She is a receptionist for a Wall Street law firm and in the office sees men of the world to which she aspires.

Mona's brother announces that her childhood sweetheart, Steve Saccarelli, grandson of the ice and coal dealer, has returned home. Steve disappeared three years earlier and it was rumored he was in prison though Mona never believed this.

She meets him on her way to work one morning. Steve is handsome, well dressed and well mannered. Mona is not anxious to renew the friendship but agrees to dine with Steve. Later in the day she meets Barry Townsend, a young man of wealth and social prominence. She refuses Barry's dinner invitation, telling him she never makes engagements with clients or employers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

After leaving Mona at the office Steve headed his car northward with no plan except to go home until time to call for her at five.

His hand lay on the wheel mechanically, the car responding to his slightest touch like a sensitive race horse. He had not been to bed. Three years of loneliness coupled with that sense of security provided by sufficient money honesty come by had added a piquant flavor to New York's night life.

Before Steve had gone away he had seen only the outskirts of that life. Today he could take part and fling foolish gold with the others. And Steve wanted to show Mona this New York to which he had ascended. He had acquired an ease of manner, a sense of dress, an air. It stirred his vanity to be able to show Mona the new Steve, to walk on Broadway the Park Avenue way.

It was true, as he had told Mona, that before he had disappeared he had been involved with gangsters. Innocently enough at first, had driven what the tabloids refer to as the "hold-up car," though as far as Steve knew he had been involved in no gun-play.

It seemed to be easy money. All Steve had to do was pick up his fare as prearranged, drive to a certain, hide-out and collect his split. That the gang held out on him frequently made little difference. When he received his velvet and his risk was slight.

When he came to realize that the gang which hired him was not bound on pleasure parties, that the cash they handed him in furtive though generous amounts was offered usually after newspapers had printed accounts of this robbery or that along the jewel centers of the town Steve tried to pull out. He was approached carefully and warned. Leave town and they'd get him. Or let the cops get him for a stretch at Sing Sing.

"You haven't anything on me, buddies," Steve insisted. "Yeah! Tell that to the judge and see what it gets you!" They spoke glibly of accessory before and after the fact, of receiving stolen goods (this consisted of carrying the swag, unapprised, to the fences) of "raps" taken by innocent members of their organization.

Oh yes, they had plenty on him. So Steve perceived.

"Yellow," the gang called him.

"Green," replied Steve. But privately he told himself, "Getting less green!"

It happened that Steve, back in the days before his association with "the gang" had often had as passenger in his cab a young man about town whose wavering footsteps could not always make the distance to his club at one o'clock in the morning.

Cruising about the supper club zone in that dull period just after the theater crowds had been cared for, Steve formed the habit of picking up this passenger and dropping him safely at his club entrance.

This service was the beginning of a friendship. The night after the next jewel robbery had blazoned itself in morning and evening papers, Steve, driving idly past the club, had seen his old friend in an honest and upright condition waggling a finger into the traffic for a taxi. Steve drew to the curb and the young man got into the cab.

He was going to South America that evening, the passenger said. To make conversation Steve announced he would like to go too.

"Come on!" The invitation was spontaneous and heartfelt. "Here's the idea. Wind up any business you may have on hand and call for me at 11. You can ship as my man. The old boy got cold feet yesterday.

The trivial matter of passport could be arranged unblushingly. Baggage, my eye! Money? Here in the old jeans aplenty.

It was thus hastily agreed. Steve "wound up his business" by changing the license plate and ditching the taxi out Canarsie way, then lying low in a downtown movie house until sailing time.

In an open-all-evening shop selling men's wear he bought a hat designed to change his identity completely—a trick foisted on the world by none other than Colonel Lindbergh and worth adopting.

In a hired taxi he called for his benefactor at 11 o'clock. They boarded the Miranda in the North river, the white stars and blinking moon the only interested witnesses. New York slipped away at midnight from the ship's placid stern.

Now after three years Steve was back, a man of affairs. A partner, in fact, in a prosperous business in Brazil. He wanted to show the folks and he wanted to show Mona.

As he drove north Steve reflected that he wanted to take Mona to the swanky supper club he had found last evening.

She was a knockout but maybe she didn't have the things to wear. Not that he would mind—but she would. He had been away from civilization for three years but he knew women. It was no cinch these days for a girl to support herself, let alone her family. That good for nothing brother of Mona's—

Steve himself had bushels of money. Why not send her a gown just to wear that evening?

It did not occur to him that Mona's code might fail to include the acceptance of gowns sent to her by men friends, however well intended such a gift might be.

Steve closed his eyes and thought—as he had often thought—of Mona in a costume really befitting her beauty. That graceful figure, that hair, that creamy skin, the gray-green eyes, the wistfulness of Mona's smile, strangely at variance with its setting—

Steve laughed aloud as an idea occurred to him. Go to Pilgrim's and make old Pilgrim dress Mona up!

"They don't have anything too good for her, at that," Steve told himself.

Two hours consultation with Henri at Pilgrim's did much to deplete Steve's ideas as well as his bank roll.

He slipped five dollars to the model displaying the gown because her coloring approached Mona's and because she had shown untiring patience. The messenger boy got another five to insure prompt delivery.

On the way up he recalled the proposed visit to the hospital. That necessitated other purchases and when a dressing gown, a steamer basket of fruit and some tobacco had been added he nosed the car at last toward the little Third Avenue flat.

Maybe Mona wouldn't like his buying all these things. That idea suddenly occurred to Steve. He dashed for a telephone and only by a series of threats did he get the magnificent Henri on the wire.

"Say," Steve said wildly, "slip a note in that box, will you? Something to the effect that I'm only lending the stuff. She might not take it otherwise, see? Fix it up, you know how. And sign it 'Steve'."

"Ze box for Mees Moran? She has gone already." Henri waved an apologetic hand unseen over the phone.

THIRD ANNUAL COSTUME BALL DRAWS CROWD

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 3.—Bigger and better than ever, the third annual costume ball of the Laguna Beach Art Association drew the largest crowd in its history New Year's eve. The costumes were more elaborate and colorful and the art gallery proved a fine setting for the event.

Mrs. Thomas S. Miller, Laguna Beach artist, won the first prize for costumes for the second year in succession. She was dressed in a period costume of the late forties. Samuel J. Sherer, as King Charles I won the prize for men. The award for the most original costume went to Miss Ada Bell, also an artist, and the comic prize to Sumner Crosby as "The Last of the Vestal Virgins." Brooks Mayhew, of Pasadena, and Miss Bell and Crosby had caricature drawings in color made on the spot by Count Wolo, of Los Angeles.

A large sum was realized for the building fund of the association. The judges were: Louis Danz, of Anaheim, president of the association, and Glenn Doss, local artist. A delicious supper was served at midnight. The Jack Gladhill orchestra of Anaheim furnished the music. Following the supper, Mrs. Jane B. Bethea played an hour for the dancers.

Place Pheasants In Hill Section

FULLERTON, Jan. 3.—Eighty-five full grown pheasants of the Mongolian ring neck variety were released recently in the hills of North Cypress avenue and in Yorba Linda by employees of the Chino state game farm.

This was the third truckload released in the vicinity and the final release from the game farm, which will not start to raise quails for the wild regions. A second load was released about a year ago.

John C. Gregory, president of Isak Walton league, said the Isak Walton league and all authorities assure protection for the birds in the section, and said there is a state law that carries a heavy penalty for shooting the birds.

TWO WILDCAT WELLS SLATED IN BEACH AREA

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 3.—Two tests are reported to be planned for the east side beyond the city limits, one in the vicinity of Five Points and one near the Newland-Borchard tract on the east bluff just outside the city limits. Both tests are said to be under consideration by independent oil interests.

The major companies are not trying to increase production, but are buying all gravities of oil in the field here. For the first time in many months there is a ready market for the low gravity oils. Standard Oil company is purchasing low gravity oils now and the oil of low gravity is proving fairly profitable.

S. S. Gold and associates will abandon the Riddle well in the town lot area of the west end, according to announcement made in the weekly bulletin of the division of oil and gas of California. In the same bulletin announcement is made that the Lafayette Petroleum company will redrill its community No. 8 well in the Garfield street section of the old field.

The Riddle well was recently worked over and put on production but proved unprofitable. The Lafayette company's well in the old field is said to justify more money being spent on it in an effort to increase the production.

The Wilshire Oil company is reaming its well on Nineteenth street near Ocean avenue where a sand was found at 4300 feet that gave nice cores. When reaming is completed casing will be set and a production test made. This test should come within the next couple of weeks. On the outcome of this well depends several small redrill and deepening jobs in that part of the field. Some of the more optimistic scouts who have been watching this Wilshire well predict it will come in for anywhere from 300 to 500 barrels, such predictions being merely guesses based on the sand as shown by cores from the well.

Beach City 3-Year-Old Knows Cars

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 3.—The uncanny ability of Jimmy Mackenzie, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Mackenzie, of this city and Pasadena, to tell the makes of autos which whiz by on the highway has startled every person who has ridden in a car with him.

While the average adult person, it is said, could not amass more than a 50 per cent average, young Jimmy, who, of course, cannot read and is only learning to talk, can rattle off the names of more than 75 per cent of all machines, big and little, old and new, that pass.

The youngster's father is an aviator and a former auto salesman and both parents have driven for years, but no unusual reasons exist for their son's cleverness along this line.

Naming cars which pass motorists on the highway may be valuable for all boys, said Mrs. Mackenzie, as it would teach them to keep their eyes on the road when they learn to drive.

WILFORD PRESSON, GLENDALE GIRL WED

GARDEN GROVE, Jan. 3.—The marriage of Wilford Presson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Presson, of Garden Grove, and Miss Celestia Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Taylor, of Glendale, took place at the home of the bride's parents at 406 East Anceia street, December 30. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Frazier, pastor of the Nazarene church of Burbank.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with a large picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white rose buds. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Floyd, of Glendale.

Following the ceremony a reception was held with 20 close friends and relatives present. Mrs. Presson is a graduate of Glendale high school. Mr. Presson graduated from the local high school and has made his home here for the past four years. The couple will make their home for

'NEW THINGS' SERMON TOPIC IN EL MODENA

EL MODENA, Jan. 3.—At El Modena Friends church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. James C. Fisk, spoke on "New Things," reading as a lesson, Exodus 33:12-15. As a text he used Isaiah 43:18, 19, "Remember ye not the former things, neither consider the things of old. Behold, I will do a new thing; now it shall spring forth; shall ye not know it? I will even make a way in the wilderness, and rivers in the desert." He said in part:

"We are expecting a new thing and it is true, we are going to get it. Hoover would have been in the White House today, instead of off fishing, but people wanted something new. We are going to see something new, whether it is best for us or not. It fell to the lot of Moses to lead the children of Israel from Egypt into a greater life. They were a proud, stiff-necked people, and if he took that people he desired to know that God was with him. He solicited the Spirit of God to go. Except this presence go with me, Moses would rather have died than to have undertaken to lead those people alone. He didn't go to Aaron, he did not consult Joshua, he went to God. In this new pathway for man to do certain things would only bring temporary relief.

"We need men who have wholly sought the mind and will of Jehovah. Something new is something which has never been tried. It has been suggested that electricity be used for money instead of gold. Men are thinking what to do; but one thing is sure, the Democrats have got to do something.

"When man comes to the end of himself and he knows it, is when he proves God. As we become weaker in our own ability, it is natural for us to lose confidence in ourselves and to seek outside help. If anything at all is ever done, the help must come from God.

"God said, 'I will do a new thing.' I believe there are enough professing Christians so that if God had His own way with the men and women called by His name, there would be enough surplus money in the hands of church people to tide us over. God is still able. He is the God of Moses, the God of Abraham, of Isaac and of Jacob. He is able to lead His people out, but we have to know our weakness before we will follow Him."

TECHNOCRACY IS DISCUSSED BY REV. MINCK

ORANGE, Jan. 3.—Speaking before a large audience Sunday morning at the First Christian church, the Rev. Franklin H. Minck, pastor, discussed "Technocracy." He stated that as some one must make the machine serve mankind, it does not matter whether this service is accomplished through technocracy or some other political scheme.

The pastor stated that "Public opinion is divided into two camps, those favoring and those opposed to Technocracy. I find myself somewhere between the two groups."

Continuing, he brought out that there are four main facts which must be faced by America, including: first, displacement of men by machinery, with the result that today between 12 and 14 millions are unemployed in this country; second, overwhelming indebtedness of the people, which amounts to 218 billions of dollars for public and private affairs. This year's income amounts to only 45 billions of dollars, and over half of that is needed for taxes and interest on indebtedness, Mr. Minck stated.

The third and fourth facts to be faced by America, he said, are that the machine has been used for getting profits rather than serving mankind, so that the amount now paid out for wages is two-fifths of what it was in 1926, while divi-

Continuing, he brought out that there are four main facts which must be faced by America, including: first, displacement of men by machinery, with the result that today between 12 and 14 millions are unemployed in this country; second, overwhelming indebtedness of the people, which amounts to 218 billions of dollars for public and private affairs. This year's income amounts to only 45 billions of dollars, and over half of that is needed for taxes and interest on indebtedness, Mr. Minck stated.

The third and fourth facts to be faced by America, he said, are that the machine has been used for getting profits rather than serving mankind, so that the amount now paid out for wages is two-fifths of what it was in 1926, while dividends are still 50 per cent higher than in 1926; and that there are resources, machinery and man power in America to more than meet the needs of the country, including the 14 millions of unemployed.

The pastor turned to some of the predictions of Technocracy, including the probabilities that money would be displaced by certificates; there would be no indebtedness or unemployment; there would be a 16-hour working week; technocrats would replace politicians, and the government would own all machines and resources; everyone would seek the services of technocrats.

In referring to the predictions, the Rev. Mr. Minck stated that "These predictions are worthy of considerations, and I do not find myself able to accept all at their face value."

He made the statement that one of three things probably will happen. First, either the present system will adopt itself to the facts given above and machines will serve man or, second, Technocracy may advance a sounder proposed solution. His third prediction was that if the depression continues, Technocracy might be swept into power in 1934 or 1936 because the people are bound to turn to something that holds forth a glimmer of a hope.

THE TINYMITES

The bird that Coppy lassoed was mad at the Tinymites because it didn't like to have a piece of rope around its neck. All of a sudden it swooped high and Duncy shouted, "Me, oh my! If this keeps up much longer our fine plane will be a wreck!"

Then Windy, who was driving, said, "Oh, no! Here's where I use my head. I'll head the plane down toward the earth and jerk the bird around."

"The plane is strong enough, I guess, to pull us out of this fine mess. Don't worry, lads. I will not let the plane fall to the ground."

"Okay!" cried Windy. "Hang on tight and everything will be all right. I know just how to land the plane so it will not upset." And then they landed, with a sigh. The man they'd seen was right nearby. Said Scouty, "He's a fisherman. He has a great big net."

THE DRAB NINETIES AND HOW THEY GREW GAY

Just when the people had despaired of seeing a revival, along came the big upswing, brightening the Christmas of 1897 and ushering in the McKinley era of prosperity

By JOHN W. LOVE

TWO years ago a few shrewd young men decided they needed the advice of people who had been through old-fashioned hard times, and so they went to some men who were over 60. They knew that men of that age would have vivid memories of a period of depression the equal of this one, and that they would recall how the successful business men of their youth managed to survive the storm.

The depression from which these young men sought examples was the great business deficit of the middle 1890s. Anyone who is more than 40 is likely to have some recollection of those days, even if it is nothing more than of the numbers of tramps who rode the freight trains unmolested, as they begin to ride them now.

Only the depression of the 1870s had equaled it in severity, and in some respects it was worse. The panic of 1893 had deepened into the miseries of 1894, the false dawn of 1895, the despair of 1896.

Christmas of 1896, in the big cities, was an affair of breadlines, soup kitchens and flop houses.

Finally, after nobody believed in recovery any more, it came—in 1897 and 1898—and the country swung into a prosperity grander and more imperial than any we had known before.

THE last decade of the century is sometimes called the Gay Nineties, but only its beginning and its end were gay. It ought really to be known as the Somber Nineties, or the Drab Nineties, for much of what was happening in those times was like what has been happening in the early 1930s.

But the way the gloom of the '90s finally yielded to the dawn at the end of the century is worth studying even today to see if we can get any suggestions toward the way out of today's troubles.

The panic of 1893 had been brought on much as the panic of 1873 had, by over-speculation in railroad stocks and a sudden suspicion that everything was not well with them. Just when everybody was telling everybody else that business was sound in every particular, it began to crack.

The Philadelphia & Reading's stockholders and those of the Gould railroads had been especially confident speculators, and they were the first to collapse. The Reading went into receivership in February of 1893 and the familiar domino train of panic set in.

Banks began failing by the scores, and by the end of the year 74 railroads were in the hands of receivers. They included the Lake Shore, the Northern Pacific, the Union Pacific, the Atchison, and a road which had often signaled a panic by going into receivership—the Erie. The railroads' recent troubles look mild in comparison.

By 1894 the country was in the grip of "hard times" like those of 20 years before. In Europe, indeed, the depression of the 1870s had never fully come to an end, and so it might be correct to say that in America the panic of 1893 was only the panic of 1873 come back again. America had tried to prosper too long without Europe fully sharing.

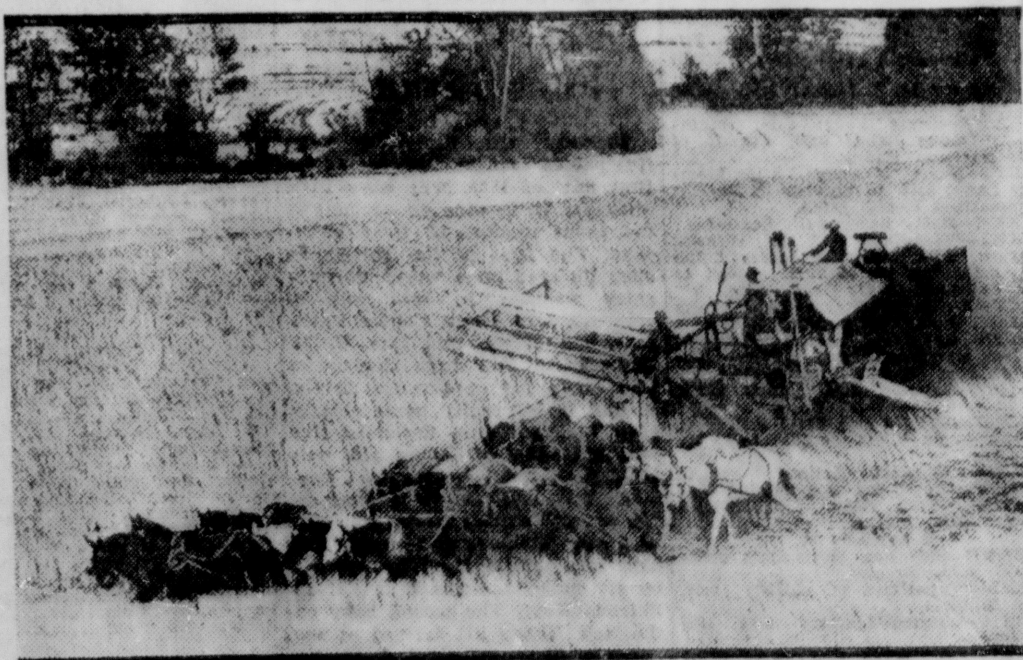

THE deep dejection of this downward cycle is remembered for two sinister events.

One was the famous American Railway Union strike in Chicago, which Eugene Debs managed. He had seen it start with misgivings, and the affair ended in disaster.

The other dark event was one that did not actually happen: the memory is of the narrow escape. This was the thin margin by which the United States avoided going off the gold standard in 1895. It was only two weeks away.

The federal financial crisis had resulted indirectly from Europeans selling in 1894 the American stocks they had bought cheaply in the crash of 1893. This began draining the country of gold, and by early 1895 the Grover Cleveland administration had to induce J. P. Morgan to buy United States bonds with imported gold. The country had a second tight squeeze a little later, but was saved that time by the onrush of returning prosperity.

The turn for the better in this country came in 1896, imperceptibly, as always.

The golden grain of the wheat belt helped to end the depression of the '90s . . . as the great agricultural surpluses from farms like this in Washington helped bring gold back into the nation.

THE causes of depressions are usually pretty clear, but the causes of business revival are always obscured in the gloom of depression. When business gets under way the improvement can be noticed, but the economists seem still at sea over the precise happenings and by 1895, 35 million.

Equally important with the discoveries of gold in South Africa and elsewhere was the invention of the cyanide process for the extraction of the metal from the ore. Two Scotsmen in South Africa, McArthur and Forrest, were which turn bad business into good. They are often at a loss to know just why business does not keep on getting worse until finally there is no business at all. Sometimes it looks as if it might—but it never does.

It was not ballyhoo that brought the depression of the '90s to an end. There was plenty of cheer-leading in 1893, there were campaigns of optimism the next year, and by '95 there were newspapers that blamed politicians for purposely discouraging business men, and tried to prove that prosperity was at hand.

One of the causes of the revival in the late 1890s was undoubtedly a series of events in a distant quarter of the globe, events that took place quietly at first, then commanded the attention of the world, even without the world understanding what the portent was. These events had to do with the mining of gold in South Africa.

THE presence of gold had been known in remote times, but in 1886 the mother lode was found in Witwatersrand, a few miles from Johannesburg on the veldt of the Boer republic. By 1890 the region was producing eight million dollars worth of gold a year.

In 1895 the world's gold production was reaching figures that cheered every financial center, and men concluded that revival could not be long delayed. The prices of the great staple commodities, such as wheat and cotton, had been sinking for years, and it was not until 1897 that they began to respond to the presence of additional gold.

The old formulas of price were working again: the more gold there was the higher prices had to be, because they were the values of commodities written in terms of gold.

THE slow but certain increase in prices which began in 1896 or '97 was the change which prepared the business recovery. Men could lay their plans with the certainty that the bottom of prices had been reached, and that after their labor had been added to the cost of what they had purchased, they would not again lose all their efforts.

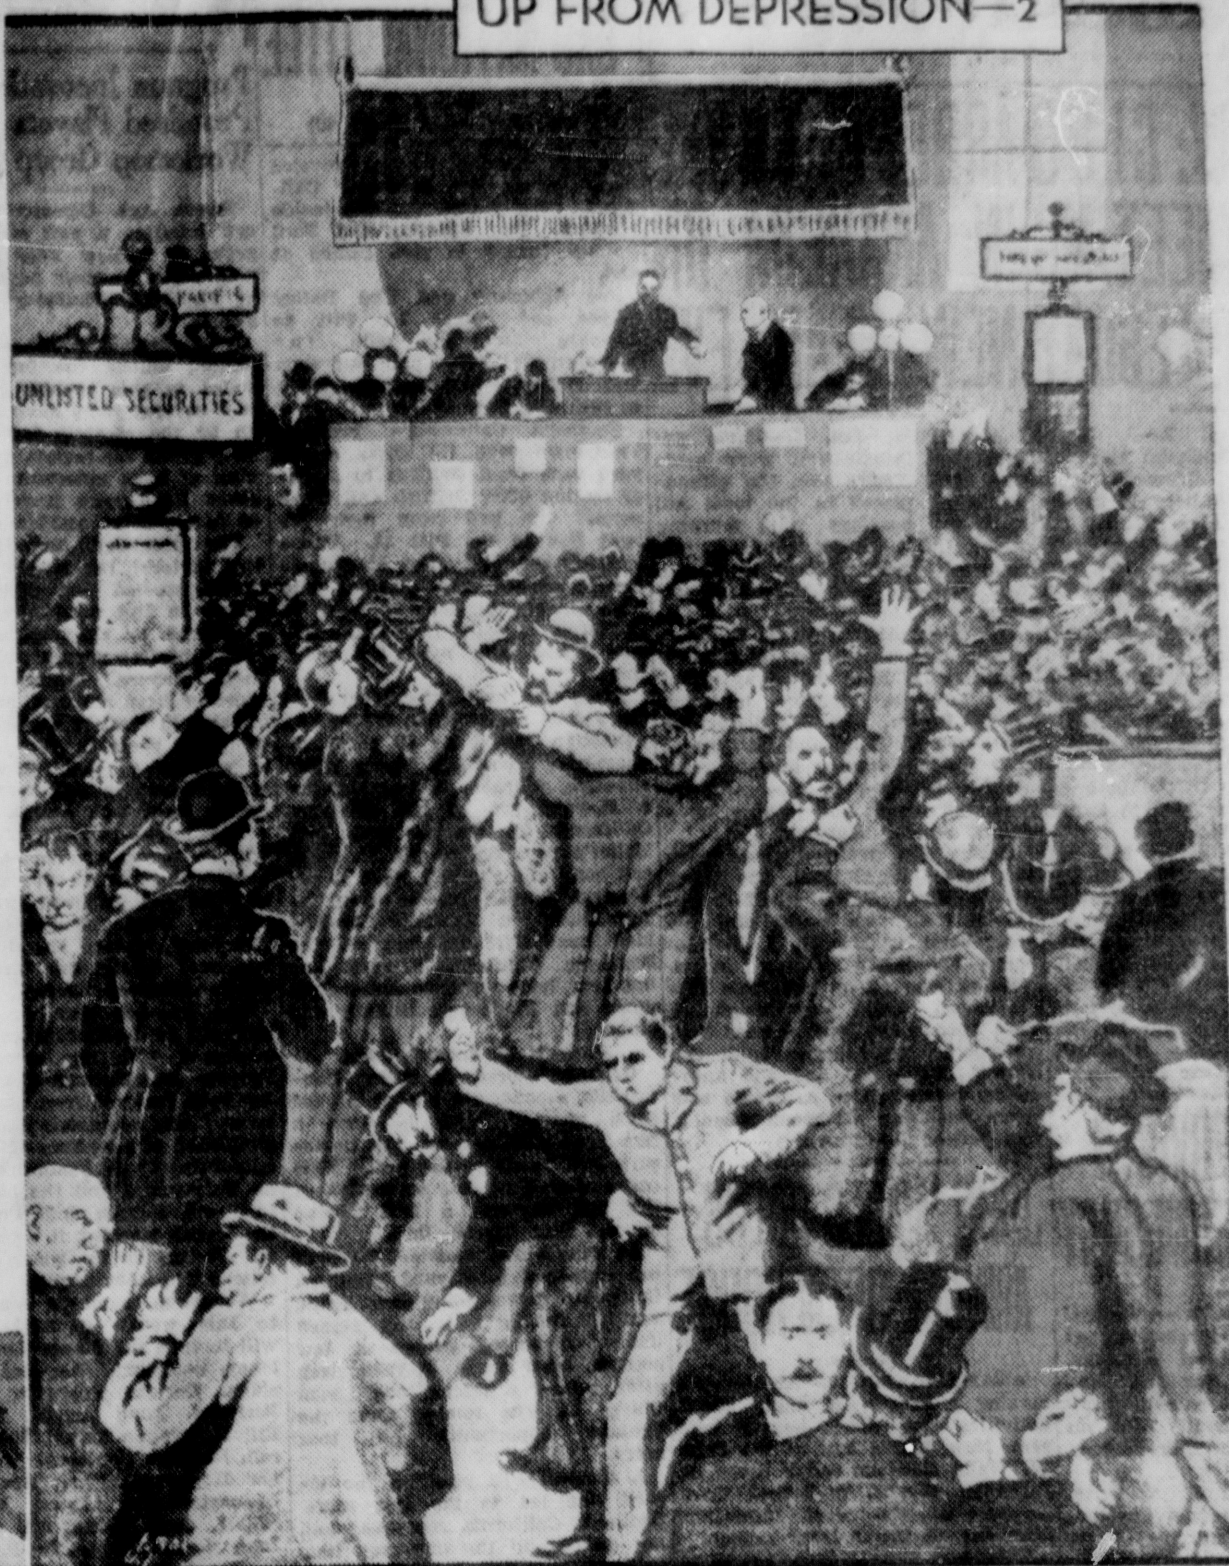

At the same time a number of other things were happening which appeared more directly to be responsible for the revival, and which generated great political benefit from the coincidence.

One of these was the election of William McKinley and the defeat of William Jennings Bryan and his proposal for the free coinage of silver. The increase in the gold supply had made Bryan and his "free silver" unnecessary, but it appeared to many that Bryan's defeat was itself primarily responsible for the sudden improvement in business.

Millions today still believe it was the victory for "sound money" in 1896 that turned the tide in the great depression. The gold standard achieved then and afterward a prestige from which even the events of this depression have not shaken American opinion.

Yet it may be doubted whether the era of McKinley and high tariff would have been possible had it not been for the mining industry of Colorado, South Africa and the Klondike, and the achievements of the metallurgists.

responsible for a scheme that enabled miners to double their production from the same mine, and even to work over again the old tailings.

Nor was the South Africa the only spectacular gold producer. Gold was found in Poverty Gulch, near Cripple Creek, Colo., in 1890, by Bob Womack, who died poor. A prospector who followed him, W. S. Stratton, accumulated $20,000,000.

By the time the depression was deeply settled over the eastern parts of the United States the gold production in Cripple Creek was running into the millions. The roughhouse life of the frontier of earlier days was reproduced. Colorado's production of gold, and that of the United States, was swelling just when the country and the

ANOTHER circumstance which made Republican victory possible in 1896 was the remarkable wheat market of the fall of that year. In August the price of the great staple was still lingering near its low of the decade—around 53 cents a bushel in Chicago. Responding to reports of a poor crop in India it started upward. By election week it was 94 cents a bushel.

Large agricultural surpluses in the 1890s were the real instruments by which the United States government was able to preserve the gold standard in this country. By heavy shipments of the staples to Europe this country obtained the favorable excess of international credits which effectually stopped the drain of gold.

Golden grain from the west, real gold from the west and Africa, together brought prosperity back to America.

THE railroads, whose excess of construction had been partly responsible for depression, began to add to their mileage in 1896, and by 1897 the western lines were again building branches on almost the old enthusiasm, even though the frontier was gone.

The steel industry entered upon the most remarkable expansion of its history.

Pig iron production had sunk in 1894, but by 1895 it was already on the mend, and some departments of the iron and steel business scarcely knew of hard times.

The industrial reconstruction of the south dates approximately from the depression of the '90s. Cotton spinning and weaving had always been carried on in the south, but by the late '90s the expansion there took on the proportion of a migration from New England.

From spinning a quarter of the nation's cotton in 1890 the southern states by 1895 were spinning a third. In less than a decade the south's spindles increased 151 per cent.

America in the late '90s began rebuilding her cities for the new age. Chicago had invented the steel-frame skyscraper a few years before and New York grabbed the idea. Other cities followed suit, and there was thus a vastly expanded market for the new steel mills.

BY 1897 there could be no doubt recovery was in sight. Wall Street financiers resumed the merging of little companies to make big ones, and big ones to make bigger. The era of the trusts dawned upon an amazed public.

Christmas of 1897 was brighter than many a one before. The magazines bought more Christmas poetry than they had for a long time, more stories of lonely bachelors at Christmas, of Christmas on immigrant trains.

New York's breadlines dwindled down to nothing, the department stores bought more toys from Europe than they ever had, and the newspapers printed Christmas pictures of the German kaiser and his six sons, and of the Russian empress and her baby daughters.

ton and Gordon Clark traveled many yards for Southern California, mostly over Smith's tackle position. Ray Sparling and Ford Palmer turned in fine games at end.

Joe Skladany and Ted Dalley played end games for Pitt to compare favorably with the Southern California pair but even with Heller they were not enough to turn the tide.

Southern California's prettiest touchdown was its first, a 33-yard pass from Griffith to Palmer scoring after Griffith and Clark carried the ball from their 37-yard line to the Pitt 23. Palmer took the ball over his shoulder, a mighty leap carrying him high enough to keep it clear of the arms of Mike Sebastian, who had paced him over the goal-line.

Pitt's two best efforts came in the second period when Heller and Sebastian picked up 22 yards on successive drives and Henry Weinbaum, fullback, broke away for a 29-yard run to the Southern California 24. On the next play Heller's pass fell in the U. S. C. end zone and the ball went to Western eleven on its own 20. Immediately a partially blocked kick gave Pitt the ball on the Southern California 28-yard line but four tries failed to net a first down and Pitt's best threats was stopped.

Pass Nets Second Score Griffith scored Southern California's second touchdown in the third quarter when he took a flat pass and scooted the necessary two yards to the goal. This came after Troy got possession of the ball through a Pitt fumble on the Pitt 7-yard line.

In the fourth quarter Warburton climaxed a 65-yard Southern California drive, going over Ernie Smith's tackle from the 1-yard line. Warburton scored a few seconds later on a 10-yard dash after taking a lateral pass from Clark. A Pitt fumble gave the Trojans opportunity for that score.

A blocked Pitt punt on the 15-yard line led to the last score. Southern California recovered and ran quickly to the one-yard line. From there Dick Barber, substitute fullback and intercollegiate broad jump champion, crashed across.

Southern California has not lost a game or been tied since St. Mary's took the opening game of the 1931 season. It ran to four its Rose Bowl victories, having beaten Penn State in 1924, Pitt in 1930 and Tulane in 1932.

As the Trojans thus earned the best record of any Rose Bowl competitor, the defeat gave Pitt the world record—three defeats in as many games.

Pitt lost to Stanford in 1928 and to Southern California in 1930.

Mrs. Joe Walters, is expected in Anaheim this week. He has just completed a tour with the vaudeville circuit of Fanchon and Marco.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ross and family spent Saturday in the mountains and on Monday went to Pasadena to the Tournament of Roses.

Mr. and Mrs. David Wagner of 545 North Clementine street were host New Year's Eve to 24 guests at a dancing party given by them in their home. Breakfast was served in the early morning hours.

Merchants and Manufacturers association will hold a meeting tomorrow noon in the Knights of Pythias hall at 12:30 o'clock. An able speaker is expected to talk to the members.

SOCIETY

Program Innovation is Promised Players by Workshop Group

Santa Ana Community Players are bringing a new style of program to a New Year when they hold forth in their popular refuge at The Barn Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Four dramas which critics have ranked among the foremost produced in this country within the past several years have been chosen by the recently formed workshop group for review, and an evening of keen entertainment is assured Barn-goers traveling as far as East Fourth and Mabury streets.

The program's novelty lies in two factors: the number of plays to be studied and their presentation in two forms, by brief review and by the reproduction of representative scenes. The workshop players, comprising some score of Barn members actively interested in creative dramatics, have assigned parts in the four plays to various of their number and will present, in skit form, typical action from each drama.

The customary refreshments will be served and members probably will have an opportunity to hear of the progress being made on the next community play, "Berkeley Square," shortly to begin rehearsal under the direction of Gladys Simpson Shafer.

The one-act play contest, announced at the Christmas meeting, has met with an interested response, contributions already having been received from Barn members. All manuscripts must be submitted to members of the Barn committee by next month's meeting on February 2 and the best offerings will be cast and produced at the March meeting. It was explained, Judges for the contest may be named Thursday night.

Workshop members contributing to this week's unusual program will include the Misses Louise Maloney, chairman; Florence Brownridge, Loretta Spangler, Marie Scrivens, June Arnold, Margaret Elliott, Yvonne Nelson, Eileen Carrol, Barbara Copeland; Mrs. Eleanor Hogue; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lancaster and Messrs. Frederick Elliott, Gene Olson, Bill Oglesby, John Norton, Robert DePree, Willis DePree, Clarence Patmor and Arthur Casey.

Calumit Auxiliary

More than 135 members and friends of Calumit camp and auxiliary, U.S.W.V., took part in the monthly covered-dish dinner held Wednesday evening in Knights of Columbus hall.

The occasion proved to be a surprise celebration honoring the birthday anniversary of Commander Charles Winter and Mrs. Elizabeth Moberly, president of the auxiliary.

Mr. and Mrs. Winter and Mr. and Mrs. Moberly were seated at a table centered with a bouquet of red and white roses, while remaining tables were decorated with holly. During the dinner the two guests of honor were presented with birthday cakes on behalf of the auxiliary, with Mrs. Sherman Glaze and Mrs. Arthur Randall making the presentations.

Mrs. Charles Lindquist and Mrs. Beatrice Zabel presented Mrs. Moberly and Mr. Winter with a shower of gifts from the assembled group. Frank Rowe was fortunate in winning a handsome pillow as a special gift.

Adjourning to the large hall, the group enjoyed a program put on by the Josephine Biffle School of Dancing of Orange. Miss Biffle was at the piano, Marjorie and Norma Short, Shirley Valentine, Johnnie and Thomas Harms, Eileen Faber and Suzanna Huff entertained.

Chairmen for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Glaze. Assisting them were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Randall, Mr. and Mrs. M. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindquist, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Erickson, Mrs. Beatrice Zabel and Miss Vera Bailey.

STAGG IN HOSPITAL WITH PNEUMONIA

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Amos Alonzo Stagg, dean of American football coaches, fought influenza and bronchial pneumonia today at Medical Arts sanitarium, aided by one of his former grid stars.

"Unchanged" was the latest report on his condition from Dr. Max Rohde, a member of Stagg's Chicago university eleven which won the Big Ten championship in 1907.

Dr. Rohde admitted his 70-year old patient was "pretty sick" but said his amazing strength and vitality undoubtedly would "pull him through" and put him back on his feet again in a week or so.

Stagg, who resigned recently after 40 years as football coach at Chicago, had been the recipient of singular honors from his coaching colleagues in the past week during the conventions of the American Football Coaches' association and the National Collegiate Athletic association.

The sportsmanship brotherhood gave him a gold medal and the N. C. A. A. awarded him a gold football and made him a life member of the football rules committee. One of his services to American youth.

GOLF ACES TUNE UP FOR N. A. OPEN PLAY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.—(UP)—Golfers tuned up for the $5000 Los Angeles Open today when qualifying rounds were held simultaneously at Sunset Fields and Baldwin Hills.

Virtually all the well known stars were exempt from the qualifying heats, including Gene Sarazen, British and U. S. Open champion; Walter Hagen, Oil Duffer, Leo Diegel, Horton Smith, McClellan Smith, Craig Wood, Harry Cooper and "Wiffy" Cox, who finished among the first 30 in last year's event.

Eddie Loos, Chicago professional, however, had failed to crash the charmed circle, so was forced to qualify for the championship which will start Saturday at Wilshire Country club.

Among the late entrants were Serazen and Hagen who abandoned winter posts in Florida to engage in the local and Agua Caliente championships.

Santa Clara Five Beats California

BERKELEY, Jan. 3.—(UP)—Santa Clara's smooth working basketball team routed California, 32-17, before 2000 spectators here last night. The Bronchos have beaten the Golden Bear cage team every year since 1927.

Big "Hands" Slavich, Bronco football star, led the winning attack, accounting for 12 points.

The Bears face Nevada tonight.

COMMITTEE ON SOCIAL TRENDS MAKES REORT

Probably the nation was somewhat startled yesterday on the receipt of the report of the President's Research Committee on Social Trends. In the autumn of 1929, President Hoover appointed this group. It is the most extensive report on the various fields which has ever been made.

The President declares in his foreword that the survey is entirely the work of the committee and its experts, as it was the President's desire to have a complete, impartial examination of the facts. The report is published in two volumes, comprising 1063 pages, and that part of it which is being published in the newspapers is simply a few of the more outstanding and striking findings on the financial and other related conditions.

It is very remarkable in these findings, how in the main, this committee supports the findings of the engineers, working under the head of Technocracy in Columbia University. This is evidenced particularly when they say that while they do not wish "to assume an attitude of alarmist irresponsibility," it would be "highly negligible" to "ignore imminent perils in further advance of our heavy technical machinery over crumbling roads and shaking bridges."

They add: "These are times when silence is not neutrality, but assent."

They proceed to say:

Our life has become disoriented and upset in many activities because social changes are taking place so fast in some quarters and so slow in others.

These unequal speeds are causing jams, dangers and tensions, throwing the social organization out of balance and causing numberless national problems with promise of others to emerge.

Change in itself is not an evil, however, as hope for social betterment in the future lies in the fact that we can adjust ourselves to change.

And then further:

Unless there can be a more impressive integration of social skills and fusing of social purposes than is revealed by recent trends, there can be no assurance that these alternatives, with their accompaniments of violent revolution, dark periods of serious repression of liberation and democratic forms, the proscription and loss of many useful elements in the present productive system, can be averted.

There can be no doubt but what in these statements and findings, they have in mind the displacement of labor by machinery, and the failure of our political or social sciences to so adjust society to these changes, as to save it from the most alarming maladjustments. After reciting the manner in which the government took over the activities of the nation in the World war, it says: "In retrospect it offers a significant illustration of the rapidity and the success with which a people can recast its basic institutions at need. Seemingly what engineers regard as the slow pace of change, in economic organization, is due more to absence of unity in will and purpose than the lack of capacity to imagine and carry out alterations."

Then it proceeds to say:

No similar revolution could be effected in times of peace unless a similar agreement in purpose, supplying an equal definite criterion of social values could be attained. But is it beyond the range of men's capacity some day to take the enhancing of social welfare as seriously as our generation took the winning of the war?

In reading their discussion of current changes in economic institutions, one is led to wonder what the President must think of this report of the committee, in the light of his emphasis on "rugged individualism." After reciting the changes made in the power of a man to do what he will with his own, it says: "It is conceivable that without any surrender of our belief in the merits of private property, individual enterprise and self help, the American people will press toward a larger measure of public control to promote the common welfare."

While we have before us only what is a synopsis or a prospectus of 75 pages of the report of this committee, we have sufficient to see that its discussion of the problems of physical heritage, of biological heritage, of social heritage, in all of their various ramifications, after such complete and thorough work, will be well worth the time and attention necessary to a thorough reading of the volumes completely.

PROPOSE TO TEST DRUNKENNESS

It is proposed now that they have a test of 3.2 per cent beer to determine its intoxicating properties. It will be recalled that the one-half of one per cent that is now established by the Volstead act, as being the amount above which the beer shall be considered intoxicating, is a percentage that was determined by the brewers themselves. This was done back in the "60's", when there was a desire on the brewers' part to keep the unlicensed brewer from placing his products on the market.

They then agreed that anything above one-half of one per cent was intoxicating. This is the reason that this one-half of one per cent was adopted in the Volstead Act. Now the brewers desire, of course, to have the alcoholic content as high as possible.

There is a great deal in such a test, which would depend upon whether it was the friends of prohibition, or the friends of alcoholic liquor who were conducting the test. Among drinking people, there is almost as much difference of opinion as to what constitutes drunkenness as there are people who will express their opinion. The same is true of physicians.

Some hold that any alcohol in the human system is the beginning of the derangement of the nervous system. Alcohol in small quantities acts more rapidly and severely upon some than upon others. As it is used to be expressed, some men can "carry their drink well"; others cannot. It is quite significant, however, that in 90 per cent of the accidents, which were investigated by the police and hospitals of Los Angeles over Christmas, it was found that the drivers were drunk or had been drinking.

Some physicians contend that a man who has been drinking is at least partially drunk. Anything that makes a man partially drunk is capable of making him fully drunk. We do not know just what "partially" or "fully" mean, however, in this instance. To us it would appear that when one has taken any amount of drink, so that the organs of his body are not functioning perfectly and normally, he is drunk.

There are, of course, degrees of drunkenness. Present-day machinery and transportation and dangers demand a complete freedom from the least degree of drunkenness. We lived in a town one time where the police considered that a man was still sober if he stayed on the sidewalk, between the curb and the building line, even though he could not do it in a perpendicular position.

If they are going to test drunkenness, they will have to first define it, and in the last analysis, the Supreme Court will decide it.

SOUTHWEST'S PROMISES RENEWED IN MID-WINTER ANNUAL

Thrown into the yard or onto the porch, like any other edition of the Los Angeles Times this morning the 48th annual mid-winter number arrived. To people back east, many of whom will receive copies, it will be a wonderful enticement to this land of sunshine. To those of us who live here it is a restorer of confidence, a dispeller of bugaboos. 1932 was not a good year and yet behold what can be said about it. Looking over part four one sees beautiful photographs of this building and that built last year: A new city hall for the city of Beverly Hills, a civic auditorium for the city of Pasadena, a grandstand for the Pomona Fair grounds, a municipal auditorium and pleasure pier in Long Beach—the list is too long to mention in full. Southern California went ahead last year. Building figures assure us that it will go forward in 1933. The people of Southern California owe a debt of gratitude to the Los Angeles Times for calling our attention in so handsome and graphic a manner to the beauty that surrounds us and the good fortune that is ours.

Part one of the graphic sections is on building prosperity. There are pictures of the Boulder Dam project, Westwood, the Los Angeles and Long Beach Harbor, Olympic buildings, with articles and figures which have a far more potent effect on the confidence of human nature than any Coue formula, for they are facts and not imaginings. In another section: Forward to a New Era, we note facts and pictures of the increasing exports. And we read: Los Angeles Harbor already ships out more tons of American products than any other ocean port in the United States. . . . In 1930 New York's exports and shipments aggregated 15,422,962 long tons, while those of Los Angeles were 20,650,584 long tons.

The Los Angeles Times' Midwinter Number, no matter what the past few months may have brought of fear for the future restores our confidence in ourselves as a part of Southern California. The edition is a noble undertaking worthily carried forward. It never before served so wide a purpose.

World Executive Retires

Butte (Montana) Standard

No great public stir was occasioned by the retirement from office recently of the first world executive in the story of the human race. Sir Eric Drummond, first secretary general of the League of Nations, has resigned after 13 years service and is succeeded by his chief deputy, Joseph Avenol, who is of French nationality.

The office is one to which Sir Eric was designated in the original covenant of the League, and which he may be said to have actually created. Historians will doubtless point out that the first head of the World State in its rudimentary form was not a king or a president, but a secretary. The world association of free nations, in other words had to be built up not by force but by voluntary agreement and consent.

Five-sixths of the world's population have contributed to the retiring secretary's support and have, in some degree, recognized his authority. The population of the nations participating in the League organization is estimated at around 1,750,000,000. Virtually everyone on earth belongs except 125,000,000 Americans and 160,000,000 Russians. The 55 member nations are taxed for the support of the secretary general and of the League activities. The annual League budget is between six and seven million dollars, which is about equal to the annual budget of the United States in the administration of George Washington and John Adams.

Thus the name of Sir Eric Drummond is bound to figure in the history of civilization. The surviving influence of the League of Nations seems now in the balance. History may record the League as a failure. Yet fundamental changes in international diplomacy move slowly, and in the light of history the League as a medium for the crystallization of world opinion is likely to assume more importance than is now apparent.

Many Speak Only Spanish

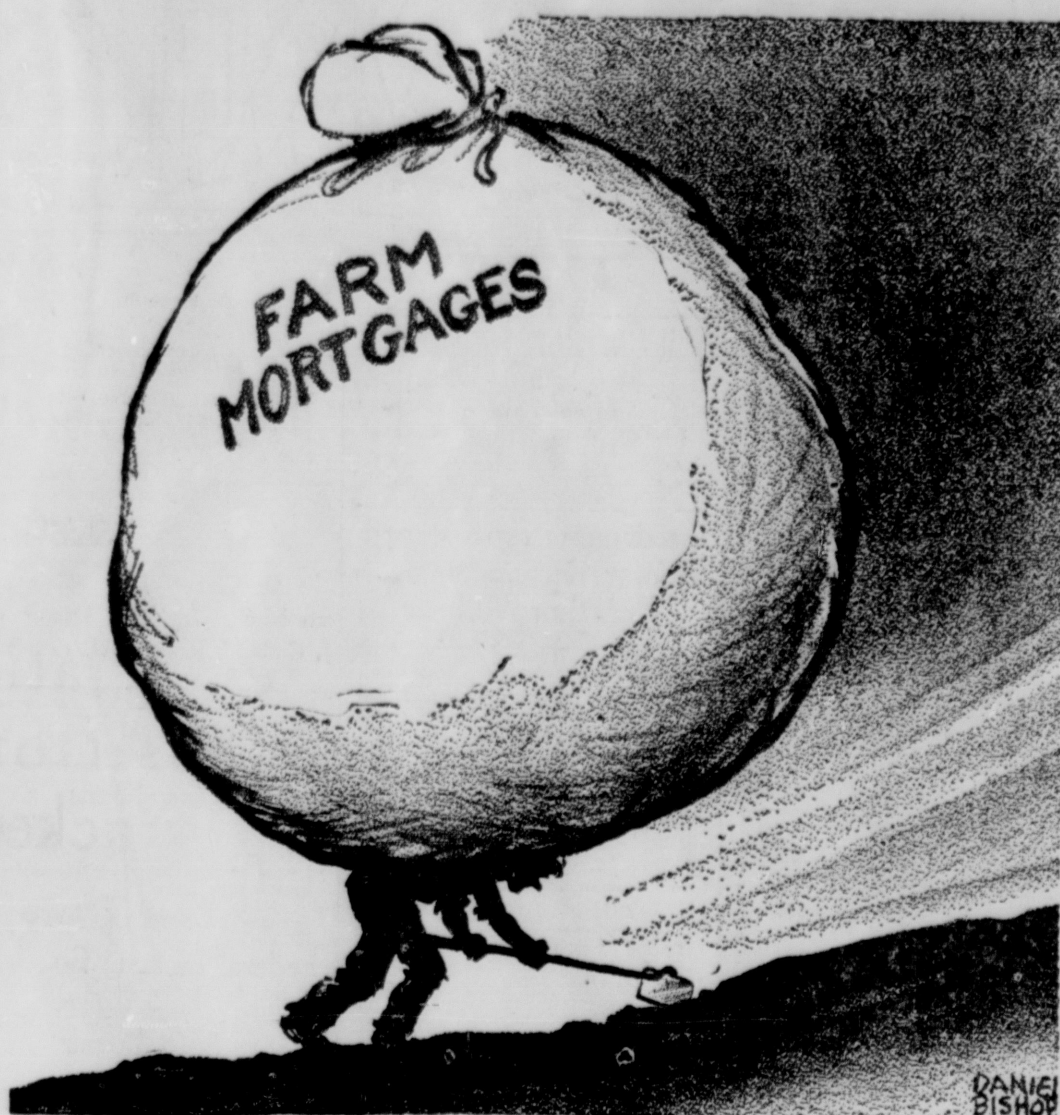

San Francisco Chronicle

New Mexico will celebrate on January 6 its twenty-first birthday as a State. It is not the youngest member of the Union. That distinction belongs to Arizona, which dates its Statehood from February 14, 1912.

Being grown up, New Mexico, has an ambitious program of Americanization. The State's constitution provided that for twenty years all laws and legal business should be in both English and Spanish. Now, with an estimated 6000 persons speaking only Spanish out of approximately 423,000 in the State, a movement has been started to have the next Legislature decide whether to continue the bilingual practice.

While it will seem strange to outsiders that after eighty-five years in the territory of the United States, twenty years in Statehood, so large a group of the New Mexican population should be unable to speak English, the reason is clear to persons who know the Mexican communities of that State. Communities where the population sees little reason to learn English.

The Man With the Hoe

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

IT ALWAYS PAYS

When the other Roman emperors
Led legions forth to foreign wars,
And brought back home
To Regal Rome
A boundless wealth of treasure,
They never earned the endless fame
Surrounding Julius Caesar's name, Nor did their praise
In after days
Resound in equal measure.

His "trick" is easily explained;
A scribe old Julius C. retained,
And when a fight
Was done, at night
He took his trusty stylus,
And noted down each glorious deed
So all posterity might read
The tales that still Possess a thrill
With power to beguile us.

J. Caesar was no greater man Than many of his fighting clan,
And you'll agree,
I think, that he
Was none, if any wiser.
And that his feats on every side
Are echoed daily far and wide
Is just because
The general was
A shrewd advertiser.

Unless men have changed, Methuselah must have been an awful bore after 963 years of gall bladder trouble.

Still, living just as you do now didn't seem so bad when you knew you could cash in for a million.

The funny part is that most of us could be as rich as we were in '29 if we used the same imagination.

A Chinese bandit is a Chinik who doesn't know the Japanese for "Yes sir."

There is too much hanging of juries. It nearly always seems unnecessary or inadequate.

AMONG THE BONDS THAT HAVE LITTLE VALUE IF YOU CAN'T RAISE CASH ON THEM ARE THE BONDS OF MATRIMONY.

Maybe going hatless affects the mind, as that expert says, or maybe it just calls attention to it.

Why buy criminals? Well, would there be any if the 85-pound boy had only his hands to subdue a 200-pound man?

Americans might have lotteries, too, if a poor man with $10 wouldn't give $1 to the grocer and $9 to the lottery.

AMERICANISM: Persecuting a few ragged Reds who denounce the nation; refusing to build enough subs and planes to protect it.

Amateurs, Miss Didrikson, are those who never take anything unless it is called a scholarship.

Among the things we have in too great abundance are legal ways to steal.

But why inflate currency until we get over inflated stocks?

IF A MAN USES A CLUB TO PUT YOU IN BED, THAT IS ASSAULT. IF HE DOES IT BY SNEEZING COLD GERMS AT YOU, THAT'S YOUR HARD LUCK.

Everything is cheaper. Never before could Britain buy America's praise and pertinazship for $5 million.

The doctors may be right about pulling teeth. That is all that keeps the League of Nations alive.

So Clarence Darrow prefers henpecked jurors. Probably wants those already reconciled to unwritten laws.

People say Roosevelt will have the next Congress in his vest pocket, but what we wish to know is whose pants pocket it will be in.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

OUR ARCHAIC GOVERNMENT

Changes are forever taking place in the life and enterprise of a people.

Governments, designed to serve the life and socialize the enterprise of a people, are never quite up to date.

There is always a lag between the swiftly changing life and slowly changing institutions of a people.

This lag on the part of the institutions of government becomes critically important in a time marked by changes so swift and sweeping as the changes now under way in the economic enterprise of the United States and of the world.

Franklin D. Roosevelt will be faced, on March 4 next, with the problems of performing a twentieth century task with tools which, in many instances, are of an eighteenth century model.

Our government was designed in terms of a small nation.

It must now play impresario to the enterprise of a very large nation.

Our government was designed in terms of an extremely simple economic order.

It must now function in the midst of an extremely complex economic order or, more accurately, an unprecedentedly complex economic order.

Our government was designed in terms of an agricultural society. It must now carry its responsibilities in a society that is predominantly industrial.

Our government was designed in terms of a fixed population, in terms of people whose residence and interests were, in the main, confined to a single locality.

It must now serve a people who are almost nomadic in the way they move about and whose interests stretch across the continent and around the world.

Our government was designed in terms of a time when the horse and buggy were the main means of transportation.

It must now function in a day of swift transportation, and yet we still elect a president in November and deny him power until March.

With government standing paralyzed at one of the most critical junctures in world affairs.

The sight of this great government being forced to mark time from November until March because we have not the wit or the will to readjust government to the changed circumstances of a new age is but a symbol of a hundred and one points at which our government is archaic.

When will we become as practical about our governments as we are about our automobiles!

OMIT DETAILS

There are times when it is good to omit details. This refers to the stories the children tell of what happens in school, or in the playground, or in the neighborhood. If they can be trained to give us the bald facts and allow us to find the details for ourselves, if we care to have them, we shall do them a great and lasting service.

A child likes the dramatic. If he sees your eyes open wide, if he has your flattering attention, he longs to hold it and he piles on the agony. Hold him to the bare facts.

"Ma, what do you think? Miss Brown wouldn't let me say my geography lesson this morning. She made me sit down. Just because I said New York for Boston she says, 'Sit down. Next.'"

And wouldn't give me a chance. But she let Buster talk an hour."

"She did? What about?"

"O, everything. She always let him talk. He tells her all about what his mother says and she lets him, and he tells her what she says about what goes on."

"I don't understand. Goes on where? You don't mean that she lets him talk about other people in the classroom?"

"Yes she does. He told her all about Mrs. Hooser's saying she wouldn't give you an extra ticket to the games and—"

"What did he say about the ticket?"

"He said she said you couldn't have it and the teacher said she was right and—"

"I'll be over to see this teacher, believe me. Now you better eat your lunch and get back."

Now began an almost endless series of arguments. He said she said, I didn't say, I never said, he told me, she asked me and I said, until the whole neighborhood was stirred up over the simple fact that Mrs. Hooser had said Mrs. Whatevs could only have two tickets for the games because there were not enough to go round as it was. The teacher had confirmed that statement and there was no personal feeling until the boy who had failed in the geography class saw a chance to divert trouble from himself toward other people, and took it.

Children have trouble at times in knowing what actually happened and what was actually said. They have impressions, vague memories, dreams, mixed with the actual happenings. It is always best to confine them, and our interest, to the bare statement of facts when they report happenings.

It is not sporting to ask children questions about other people. Children are flattered by a grown-up's notice and they feel called upon to rise to the occasion. Even when their reports are accurate it is best to limit them to facts lest we train them to the habit of gossiping. The longer the tale the greater the opportunity for error.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files
14 Years Ago Today

JANUARY 3, 1919

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Gilbert were congratulated upon the birth of a little daughter, who was to be christened Geraldine. The baby was born on January 2, missing the opportunity of being a New Year's Day baby by 24 hours.

The departure of District Attorney L. A. West for a visit with his mother and other relatives in Irvine, Ky., left affairs of the district attorney's office to be administered by the deputy, William Menton. West expected to be absent for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Bishop, who had been prominent in musical circles since arriving in Orange county from Montana two years earlier, left for Wichita, Kans., where Mr. Bishop was to be connected with a college. He had directed the Choral society here.
